Terrorists Hold Israelis

Suspend Olympics

MUNICH (AP) — Arab terrorists with submachine guns broke into the Olympic Village today and killed two Israelis. They held a dozen others hostage against a demand for release of Arabs held for terrorists activity.

The games will be suspended later today, the International Olympic Committee announced, and a memorial service for the Israeli dead will be held Wednesday. The games presumably will resume after that.

The Arab invaders carried boxes of explosives. They threatened to kill all the hostages unless 200 Arab terrorists held in Israel were released.

Israel had asked that the games be halted, and Premier Golda Meir denounced the attackers as murderers.

The deadline for action on the terrorists' demands was first set for noon—7 a.m. EDT. Then it was extended to 2 p.m., and later to 5 p.m.—noon EDT.

A police lieutenant told AP correspondent Will Grimsley there was a plan to storm the Israeli headquarters if the 5 p.m. deadline passed without resolution of the issues. Army tanks were pulled up in front of the building.

The police lieutenant said 38 police volunteers were ready to carry out the plan of attack.

Small groups of demonstrators inside and outside the Olympic Village called for the games to be halted.

About 50 young people marched among the milling crowds outside the village with banners reading "Stop sport."

They sang in English "We Shall Overcome," the song of the U.S. civil rights movement in the 1960s.

The song was heard coming from groups of athletes inside the village, too.

Chancellor Willy Brandt called a meeting of the West German Cabinet, then flew to Munich from Bonn to supervise in the negotiations.

Police surrounded the Israel building and negotiated with the terrorists.

The raid, a daring and apparently well-planned operation, was carried out by about five men with blackened faces. Theh climbed over the fence surrounding the village and made straight for the building, also occupied by the teams of Uruguay and Hong Kong.

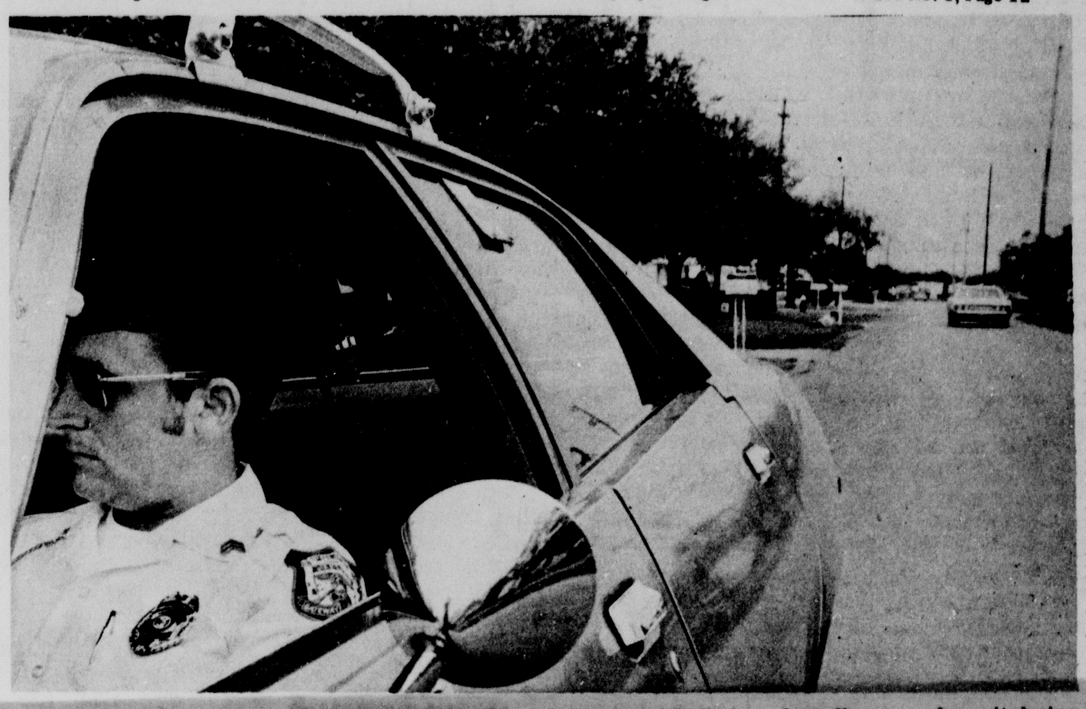

The terrorists tossed a paper out of a window of the Isr eli quarters. It bore the title "Communique" and listed five points of an ultimatum:

1. West Germany must declare itself prepared to bring the Israeli hostages to a place to be specified by the "revolutionary forces" inside the Olympic village.

2. West Germany must provide the guerrillas with three airplanes. The Israelis would be divided into three groups and placed aboard each of the planes. After the first plane left, the other planes would in succession leave as soon as word was received that the previous one had reached the asyet undisclosed destination.

3. Any attempt to interfere with the operation would result in the killing of the hostages. West Germanv

Car Rams House, Both Burn

Three Killed On SeMo Highways

Three persons were killed on Southeast Missouri highways during the three-day Labor Day weekend, according to the highway patrol, which reported a total of 44 accidents, resulting in injuries to 33 persons.

Danny Lee Norman, 18, of Campbell was the holiday's first victim, having been pronounced dead on arrival at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis after a collision at 10 p.m. Friday on Highway 62 four miles south of Malden.

Everett Boyster, 17, of St. Louis was killed in a three-car crash Sunday on Highway 32 one mile west of Bixby in Iron County. Boyster lost control of his car, crossed the center line and collided with cars driven by Billy Joe Martin, 18, of Potosi and Kennett Mowrey, 20, of Salem. Boyster and two other injured, Mowrey and a passenger in the Martin car, Mrs. Hazel Martin, were all taken to a hospital in Salem. Boyster was pronounced dead at the hospital.

A two-car mishap at 4:30 p.m. Monday on Route NN eight miles south of Rives took the life of Earnest White, 74, of Hornersville. White pulled his pickup truck from a gravel road into the path of a car driven by Carmelita Harrellson, 23, of Memphis. White was thrown from the car. The Harrellson woman was injured and taken to Baptist Memorial Hospital.

George Lee King, 51, of rural Portageville received minor burns when his house, located off Highway 162 east of Portageville, was rammed by a car driven by Harold L. Butler, 52, of Portageville.

Butler lost control of his car while traveling at a high rate of speed, left the roadway, crossed a field and ran into the house. Both the house and car burned. King was treated at Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti.

Powell To Appear In Drug Case

Arrested Saturday on Highway 53, near Campbell, by Sheriff Raymond Scott and Highway Patrolmen Bud Mills, Jim Pemberton and Gene Duckworth, Powell was under suspicion by Sheriff Scott for dealing in drugs. One thousand amphetamine tablets were confiscated from Powell at the time of arrest.

Powell was arrested in Sikeston in May for carrying a concealed weapon. He was also picked up by Sikeston police in April for questioning after the Post House Restaurant at the Miner interchange of Interstate 55 burned. Arson was suspected in the incident, but no charges were filed.

Council To Discuss Pay For Policemen

The issue of better pay for policemen will be the topic of tonight's City Council meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the City Administrative Building.

City Manager Jim Huff said he will not recommend a pay increase for the police, but will instead recommend more overtime, an increase in the uniform allowance, and straight pay for training time, retroactive to May 1.

Huff said he could not recommend a pay increase without considering the pay rates of other city employes.

For Violating Wildlife Code

Over 35 Arrested

CHARLESTON–Between 35 and 40 arrests were made during the holiday weekend on various charges of violation of the wildlife code.

Art Province, area conservation officer, said charges ranged from over limit of possesion of doves, using unplugged guns, and shooting from moving vehicles to hunting without permits.

Five persons were arrested Sunday at Cape Girardeau Airport in Scott County with 317 doves in their possession. Arrested Monday at an airstrip in Charleston were four persons with 140 birds in their possession. Names of those arrested were not made available pending filing of charges. They are not believed to be area residents.

Daily dove limit is 10 birds and possession limit for a three-day period is 20.

Arkansas Man Pilot Of Missing Aircraft

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Federal Aviation authorities are searching for a single-engine Cessna aircraft believed to have crashed somewhere in the Bootheel over the Labor Day holiday weekend.

Pilot of the lost plane is Clay Callaway, reportedly a schoolteacher from Bald Knob, Ark. Callaway departed from a Searcy, Ark., air field Friday at 3:30 p.m. He has not been in contact with anyone since. He was bound for Ft. Davenport, Iowa.

According to officials at Pine Bluff Flight Service in Pine Bluff, Ark., the major portion of the search is being conducted in the Thayer area near the Arkansas - Missouri state line.

Callaway is thought to be the only person aboard the plane.

3 Escapees At Large

CARUTHERSVILLE — Three of six prisoners who escaped from Pemiscot County jail Saturday night returned to custody voluntarily during the weekend. Three others are still being sought.

LeRoy Terry, 24, of Champagne, Ill., Billy Palmer and Thaddeus Pettigrew all walked back to the jail and surrendered themselves to officials Saturday and Sunday.

Palmer, arrested on charges of armed robbery, is thought to be armed and is considered dangerous. The other two are not believed dangerous.

Two Stores Burglarized

NEW MADRID--Breakins reported Friday night at Bennett's Store in LaForge and Fairless Grocery in Kewanee are believed to have been committed by the same person or persons.

About $40 in change was reported stolen from Fairless Grocery.

Bennett's Store was entered through a window in an adjoining garage and then a hole was cut in a door. Fairless Grocery was entered by breaking a window.

House To Vote On Antipoverty Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back at work after a two-week break, the Senate prepared today to vote on granting a cash award to families of policemen and firemen killed on duty, while the House was set to decide on financing the antipoverty program.

Returning following the recess for the Republican National Convention and Labor Day, senators were scheduled to vote on a bill to provide $50,000 taxfree for the family of any policeman, fireman or other public safety officer killed in the line of duty.

House members slated action today on a compromise bill authorizing $4.8 billion for a twoyear extension of the antipoverty program.

Congressional leaders are shooting for adjournment by the end of the month, but it is likely the session will spill over into October because of a number of controversial issues still to be resolved.

The first measure to be voted on by the Senate provides, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1967, for a $50,000 federal payment to the widow or other dependents of public safety officers killed while on duty.

In addition to policemen and firemen, this would include prison guards, national guardsmen and members of the armed forces assigned to maintain civil peace.

An almost-unbroken rise in police killings in the last decade led the administration to request the legislation. Justice Department records list 126 policemen killed in line of duty during 1971, compared to 37 a decade earlier.

The bill also would provide for a payment of $25,000 to an officer for the loss of a foot or a hand or blindness in one eye, and $50,000 for double dismemberment. None of the payments would be subject to federal income taxes.

Another bill to be voted on by the Senate is designed to take the profit out of cargo thefts by authorizing treble-damage suits and other antitrust-type remedies by victims.

The Justice Department said this could serve as a deterrent against fencing and purchase of stolen property. Losses from cargo thefts are estimated at more than $1.5 billion a year.

Radar Units Used In Stopping 9 Speeders

Police arrested 10 people for speeding in the city over the weekend, nine of whom were caught with radar units.

They include Patsey L. Allen, 602 South West, Carla Regina Walden, 515 East Kathleen; Darrell James Eaves, 618 William; Harvey Bailey, Route Two; Viola Mae Brewer, Route Three; Ella A. Robertson, 710 Commercial Street; Shirley D. Tyrrell, 919 Arlington; Beckey Lancaster, 207 Missouri; Leslie R. Shelby of Karnak, Ill.; and Lee Vaughan, 108 Comstock.

Cecil Thomas Beeson, 215 Harrington, was charged with careless and imprudent driving, resisting arrest and assaulting a police officer; Floyd Avery Caughlin, 223 West Malone, driving while intoxicated; and Mable Norris, 215 Petty, disorderly conduct.

Ricky Washburn, 823 Ruth, was charged with public intoxication; Thomas J. Schaffer of Bertrand, public intoxication, Thomas Shannon, Route Four, Box 164, no operators license; Vester Ross, 112 Cardinal Drive, disorderly conduct, also being held for Allegan County, Mich., on charges of parole violation.

Alfred Alonzo Lawrence, 312 Murray Lane, was charged with peace disturbance; Kather Ann Tipler, Charleston Route Two, public intoxication; Phillip M. Evans, 409 Clayton, careless and imprudent driving, and Janet Bowers of East Prairie, public intoxication.

Auto Stolen From Local Club

An automobile owned by Robert Lee Smith of 1919 Compress Road was stolen sometime between 1 and 5 p.m. Sunday from the Missourian Men's Club on Felker Street, according to police.

The car is described as a black over green 1968 Plymouth two-door hardtop.

Mrs. Bruce Copeland, 840 Mary, reported to police that a stereo tape player and two speakers were taken Saturday night or Sunday morning from her car while it was parked at her home.

The tape player was valued at $59.95. The speakers were worth about $10.

Woman Pleads Guilty To Bogus Check Charge

Glenda Travis was placed on two years' probation today in Magistrate Court by Judge Lloyd Briggs after pleading guilty to charges of cashing $962.37 worth of bogus checks.

Mrs. Travis cashed the checks in area stores in December 1971, and has been living in California since. She has made partial restitution, and the condition of her probation is that she repay the checks in full.

Her husband, Norman, now living in St. Louis, changed his plea from guilty to not guilty on the same charges after Briggs asked him if he had even spent time in prison and took the punishment under advisement. Trial was set for later today.

At the time he was arrested, Travis told police he was with his wife when she wrote the checks and that he told her she was writing too many. She told him she was writing enough to take her to Chicago. He said he told her that if she was going to write that many, she might as well write enough to take them to California; so she did.

A $5.50 bogus check brought Eddie D. Blisslet of 229 Dixie a one-year probation. The condition of the probation is that he make full restitution.

The same punishment was handed out to Edgar and Evelyn Harter, P.O. Box 143 in Risco, who each pleaded guilty to cashing a bad check. Harter cashed one for $7 and his wife one for $25.

Trial for Butch Howard of Crowder was set for next Tuesday. He is charged with assaulting Johnny Ray Smith of 1803 Ann Drive in Sikeston.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Charles Jones, 207 Selma, after he failed to appear in court on charges of driving while intoxicated. His bond was ordered forfeited.

Warrants for failure to appear in court were all issued against Jerry Leon Lugar of Prosperity Street on charges of having no driver's license and L.W. Tubbs of Caruthersville on charges of no drivers license.

In other court action:: Jessie Lee Moore of St. Louis, speeding case dismissed on payment of costs; Jack E. Clemons, Taylor, Mich. improper registration, dismissed by judge on payment of costs; John Paul Crouthers, 102 Dudley , expired auto license, dismissed on payment of costs.

Carl Lee Johnson of Parma Route one, no driver's license had punishment taken under advisement; Clark Williams, 226 Dixie Street, no vehicle license, dismissed on payment of costs; Dennis Ray Agee, Box 406 Morehouse, speeding, fined $58 and costs; and Monroe Marshall, 204 Brown, permitting an unauthorized operator to drive his car, fined $20 and cost.

FAIR PLAY
IN CHILE

A year ago the Chilean government, headed by Marxist President Salvador Allende, used a new constitutional amendement to expropriate all major copper holdings. Anaconda, the largest copper company in Chile, had previously agreed to allow the government to purchase full ownership of the two chief mines. Under the agreements, Chile had taken control of the mines in 1969 on its promise to pay for them by 1982. But then President Allende came along with his socialist morality.

Chile's new president refused to pay for the property he took. In addition, he claimed that because of "excess profits," Anaconda actually owed Chile money. Anaconda protested, but it did little good, since the Special Copper Tribunal comprised two judges and three Allende appointees. A fair trial to Allende terms is not what Americans consider fair.

Some $458 million, one-fourth of Anaconda's assets, was invested in Chile. Part of that sum may be recovered from the U. S. government, but nearly all of it will be lost. The sad part about it, as far as the Chilean people are concerned, is that Anaconda and Kennecott Copper together used to pay 25 per cent of all the taxes in Chile. Now that Allende has taken over, the mines are paying no taxes and they are not making any profits. What does Allende say to that?" "If the poor have to tighten their bests one notch, the rich will tighten their four notches." Even at that, the rich will not go hungry. Just the poor. What kind of progress is that?

COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM
SLIDING DOWNHILL?

The recent "ITT scandals" brought the communications industry vividly into the public eye. One sometimes wonders what these scandals are all about. Someone is seized upon and pilloried for doing the things which "everybody does all the time." "Scandals" are necessary to the proper regulation of business. They are a means of communicating ideas between potentates of business. Scandals are annoying to those who are exposed to the limelight; but they result in no fundamental changes. The press always strives to create the impression that, as a result of 'scandalous" behavior being exposed, a greater rectitude will prevail in the future. This is one of the useful mythologies of our time.

The so-called "ITT scandals" awakened nostalgia among those familiar with the history of the telegraph business. On the eve of the first world war there erupted in England a delicious scandal which was called "The Marconi scandal." This affair involved Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor of the wireless. It also involved a certain Mr. Godfrey Isaacs, who shrewdly traded the shares of the Marconi Company and exercised mysterious influence over officials of His Majesty's Government in London. Isaacs had substantial connections in London City and could dig up capital as needed for expansion of the Marconi Company. Actually, the whole business was a penny-ante game, compared to the modern television networks. The revenues involved were derived chiefly from tolls on telegrams sent between ships and shore. Nevertheless, the Marconi affair marked an important turning - point in the affairs of the modern world.

The British writer G. K. Chesterton said, "It is the fashion to divide recent history into pre-war and post-war conditions. I believe it is almost essential to divide them into the pre-Marconi and post-Marconi days. It was during the agitations upon that affair that the ordinary English citizen lost his invincible ignorance; or, in ordinary language, his innocence ... and that it will be seen as one of the turning-points in the whole history of England and the world."

There are social scientists today who say that we are suffering from "communications pollution," and there is entirely too much communication. Nevertheless, the demand for communications facilities is growing by leaps and bounds. Telephones are reproducing faster than people. Computers carry on esoteric conversations with each other over long-distance lines. Teleprinters rattle in myriads of offices. Satellites relay messages around the world and will soon be introduced into our domestic communications system as well. Video pictures are carried to every hamlet by coaxial cables and CATV systems. Thus the imbecilities cooked up by the hack writers of TV scripts are made available to all.

In spite of a research explosion, in spite of great advances in communications technology, the overall efficiency of the world's communications systems has been sliding downhill for many years. You will not hear this from the public relations departments of the communications companies.

Why is communications efficiency sliding downhill?

According to James Van Buren Hearne, the reasons are complex. It is mainly a failure of motivation on the working level. The extremely sophisticated jobs, such as building a satellite, are well done; it is precisely the cruder, lower-level operating jobs which are badly done. Personnel at this level have been relegated to the status of serfs; they are not supposed to need any motivation; yet their failures often result in costly losses to business.

Equipment is often badly designed. It fails to hold up. Personnel are not interested in it. What is wrong?

In his book Man and Technicism written fifty years ago, Oswald Spengler said: "The organization of work, as it has existed for thousands of years, based on the idea of collective doing, and the consequent division of labor between leaders and led, heads and hands, is being disintegrated from below ... This mutiny, worldwide, threatens to put an end to the possibility of technical economic work."

Spengler also observed: "Every big entrepeneur has occasion to observe a falling-off in the intellectual qualities of his recruits. But the grand technical development of the nineteenth century had been possible only because the intellectual level was constantly becoming higher. Even a stationary condition, short of an actual falling -off, is dangerous and points to an ending, however numerous and however well schooled may be the hands ready for work."

Mr. Hearne states that every exectuvie in charge of technological establishments will see that this is true, if he faces the facts. Labor unions and schools, between them, have just about destroyed motivation at the working level. Engineering schools have produced a mentality akin to that of all the decadent arts of history; it is brilliant and complex; but it is also visibly falling off. If you need the technological "hot shot," the man who still possesses the technological spirit, where can you find him today?

'OPEN PRISONS'
IN MEXICO

The government of Mexico is engaged in a far-reaching program of prison reforms that should be of interest to penologists in this country.

The administration of President Luis Echeverria, who has long deplored "jails which are schools for crime," has instituted legislation to achieve minimum standards for the social readaptation of convicts.

Most dramatic and successful of the reform measures is the "open prison," in which prisoners serving two to 10 years are assigned to penal homes just prior to being granted their freedom. Here is where they serve their remaining time while being permitted and encouraged to hold jobs in outside society.

Goal of the open prison concept is to ease the ex-criminal back into the normal flow of society with minimum stigma and maximum confidence. It has been found that the self-esteem of holding a job and being accepted is invaluable in blunting impulses toward "easy money" and violence.

The prerelease program includes visits by selected groups of prisoners to public recreation centers, restaurants, museums and public events. Some prisoners are also allowed to spend weekends with their families.

Mexico has also recently established a Committee for Former Convicts, consisting of representatives from government and private agencies, including labor and industry, to provide moral and material aid to released prisoners.

The entire system is based on the belief that society has the obligation to receive former convicts, after they have paid their "debt," and then to assist them in pursuing a normal life.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Half of all Americans have lost their teeth by the time they are 65. The biting force of teeth declines from 300 pounds a square inch among the young to only 50 pounds in the elderly.

One thing you don't have to worry about a shortage of is salt. If the salt from the oceans and seas were removed and spread evenly over the surface of the earth, the National Geographic Society says, it would form a lawyer more than 500 feet deep.

Does the realization that about one out of every four Americans is unbalanced make you stop and think? Think of your three closest friends. If they seem okay, then you're the one.

SHRIVER, PICKED LATE SEEMS A- 1

Not in recent years has the selection of a candidate for vice- president of the United States been so much in the forefront of the news. Seldom has such an unimportant matter — unimportant compared with the selection of a presidential candidate — taken on such gravity, calling into question as it did the integrity and judgement of the presidential candidate himself.

The departure of Thomas Eagleton because of the belated discovery of a skeleton in his closet, McGovern's public search for a successor, the turning away from the cup by the likes of Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie, endless speculation in the press — all these things combined to take our eyes off the central issues of the unusual McGovern candidacy even before his election campaign had begun.

But since the vice-presidential slot still occupies our attention, it needs to be stated that it is no reflection on Shriver that he was found at the end of a rather lengthy line. Judging him on his own merits and qualifications, he might very easily have been the first in line.

That is to say that, although a second or third or fourth choice, Sargent Shriver very definitely is not second or third or fourth rate.

A practicing attorney in Washington, Shriver is probably best known as the former director of the Peace Corps, having been named to that post by his brother- in-law, President John F. Kennedy. (He married Eunice Kennedy in 1953.)

Shriver remained in the Johnson administration following the assassination of Kennedy, first as head of the Office of Economic Opportunity to direct the "war on poverty," and then as ambassador to France. His name was among those considered as potential vice-presidential candidates by both Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964 and Hubert Humphrey in 1968.

It can be guessed that Shriver's connection with the Kennedy clan and his good and long- standing relations with Democratic party leaders played a part in his selection by George McGovern. If you can't have Teddy as your running mate, then Teddy's brother- in- law might do nicely.

How widely the supposed Kennedy magic casts its spell, however, and whether or not the voters associate Sargent Shriver with it, remains to be seen.

Sargent Shriver presents the interesting picture of an experienced politico who has never run for election, a seasoned public servant who has never been appointed to any office by the public — neither of which is a bad qualification.

He is handsome, accomplished, experienced, articulate, the right age, the right religion (balance, you know) and — if anybody really believes that in selecting a vice-president we should be ever mindful that we might actually be selecting a president — a definite enhancement to the McGovern campaign.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--President Nixon has rejected suggestions that he follow up his trips to Peking and Moscow with an overture to Havana.

He has no intention of seeking better relations with Fidel Castro as long as Cuba exports revolution to other Latin American countries and Russia is permitted to use Cuban territory for military purposes.

There have been conflicting signals from Havana on whether Castro is really interested in improving relations with the United States. Secret messages have been received in Washington suggesting he is eager to restore normal relations. These have been followed, almost invariably, by public attacks upon the United States.

Last fall, for example, Castro got word that the United States might soften its attitude toward Cuba. He hastily, if cautiously, flashed back the signal that he not only was receptive but that he might even be willing to use "traditional democratic procedures" to spread "socialist power" in Latin America.

Castro's message was repeated in the right places at the United Nations by his diplomatic-intelligence representative, Teofilo Acosta Rodreguez. The word quickly reached the Central Intelligence Agency, which sent a secret report, dated December 8, to the White House.

SECRET MESSAGE

"In the latter part of November 1971," reported the CIA, "Teofilo Acosts Rodriguez. . . said that Fidel Castro, Cuban Prime Minister, had received a report before his departure for Chile that U.S. officials were considering a reversal of the U.S. hard-line policy toward Cuba.

"As a result, Havana had requested Cubans at the UN to check the report. Meanwhile, Castro had decided to mellow his tone on the United States during his Chilean trip.

"Acosta commented that there is some support in Cuba for the view that Cuba could benefit from improved cultural ties with the U.S., or some realistic adjustment of differences. . . .

"Later in the conversation, Acosta said that Cuban leaders are doing some rethinking on basic revolutionary tactics. There is some theoretical opposition to the 'Che Guevara' theory, which favors supporting native insurrectionists and anarchists in poor countries.

"Instead, support is growing for the Chilean formula, which maintains that traditional democratic procedures are the best means of socialist power in weak, backward countries."

SIGNALS CROSSED

As it happened, Castro got his signals crossed. He was wrong about the possibility that the United States might soften its line toward Havana. The blunt truth is that President Nixon isn't the least interested in an accommodation with Castro.

Those who watch Havana for the United States are convinced that Castro would jump at a genuine chance to normalize Cuban-American relations. He would like nothing better, they say, than to sit down as an equal with Nixon.

Castro's slashing attacks upon the United States, they believe, are strictly defensive. He tries to appear intractable toward the United States, they say, because he is convinced the United States is intractable toward him. He is particularly harsh upon Nixon, whose name is spelled in the party newspaper with a swastaka in place of the "x."

These experts also believe Nixon has been influenced by his Cuban friends, such as BebeReboz, to maintain a hard line toward Castro. The anti-Castro Cubans, who now live and vote in this country, are almost solidly behind Nixon.

NIXON'S CUBAN POLICY

A White House aide assured us, however, that Nixon doesn't listen to Rebozo on Cuban policy. The aide said the President based his hard line on three factors:

1. U.S. policy toward Cuba isn't unilateral but multilateral. The Organization of American States voted in 1962 to break diplomatic and commercial ties with Cuba. Until this is reversed, the United States will be bound by the OAS vote.

2. Russia uses Cuba as a base to refuel its submarines and for other military purposes. The argument has been made that this violates the Monroe Doctrine. Moscow also gives Cuba an estimated $250 million a year in military aid, not to mention twice that amount in economic aid .

3. Cuba continues to provide arms, money and guerrilla training to revolutionary movements throughout Latin America. There is evidence that Russia supports Cuba in spreading subversion.

In another secret report to the White House, for example, the CIA quoted a confidential source as revealing "That the Soviets asked Fidel Castro to try to regain control of Latin American revolutionary movements and to develop closer relations with Latin American Communist parties and their leaders. . ."

The source quoted a Cuban intelligence officer, Enrique Benavides, as saying "that Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin had promised to provide financial aid to Castro's efforts to regain control over these movements. ..

"Benavides said that through Cuba the Soviets will support armed revolution or political struggle, whichever was deemed appropriate in given countries throughout Latin America. According to Benavides, the Soviets have told Cuba they will 'pay for everything' in helping all revolutionary groups. even Catholic radical groups.

"Benavides strongly emphasized that Cuba has not changed its line but still favors armed revolution everywhere in Latin America."

CONTROLLING OUR NATION'S CHILDREN

The Senate has passed and sent to the House the "Comprehensive Headstart, Child Development, and Family Services Act of 1972." According to Senator William Brock of Tennessee, "This bill would motivate the dissolution of family care, family sharing, family concern."

The bill describes itself as setting up a "partnership of parents, states and local government and the federal government" in controlling the upbringing of children. Parental rights are thus made to depend on the interests and activities of the various levels of government. Instead of government protecting the rights of families, as was traditional in our country, its bureaucrats would now be empowered tto step into the home and take over the care of children.

Centralized control of the programs authorized in this legislation would be insured by a clause stating that the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare "shall...promulgate a common set of program standards which shall be applicable to all programs."

In testimony before Congressional committees, supporters of this legislation have made no secret of their ultimate aims. Dr. Reginald Lourie told one committee that there is "serious thinking among some of the future-oriented child development research people that maybe we can't trust the family along to prepare young children for this new kind of world that is emerging."

Senator Jacob Javits, a principal sponsor of the bill, has said: "We have recognized that the child is a care of the state."

But the child does not belong to the state. He belongs with his parents and family. Every citizen who believes this should urge his Congressman to defeat this dangerous legislation. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Cracking the Banks:
Big Labor Units Begin Shifting
Big Money to First Unionized Big Bank
By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON---It is the dream of a lanky professorial-looking labor leader to unionize tens of thousands of banks throughout the land, organize their million employees and lead the nation's most massive white-collar union. In this dream of Office and Professional Employees International Union (OPEIU) president Howard Coughlin, a flow of multi-colored checks, totaling billions of dollars, pour in futuristic cinematic fashion from union treasuries into the unionized banks--money drawn from non-union depositories.

But Coughlin and his colleagues are realists. They know that American labor now can influence directly and indirectly, in its central treasuries and in pension and welfare funds, almost $40 billion. But to use this influence as a battering ram would first require unionizing at least several big banks which Coughlin could recommend to fellow union chiefs.

That would be the big money leagues. Now Coughlin's union has cracked the dike. It has fully unionized this District's third largest bank-- the National Bank of Washington which has signed up with the international's Local 2.

Next move was to get word out to all AFL-CIO affiliates. Tell them to move some of their millions into the big bank with a union label. This happened on Aug. 8. The labor federation's second-in-command, AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, dispatched an unpublicized communique to leaders of its 13.6 million members. After reporting to them that the National Bank of Washington has been unionized, Kirkland wrote:

"I would accordingly recommend that favorable consideration be given by affiliates to the services of the National Bank of Washington in connection with their banking needs. Fraternally yours."

Then some money has to start seeping through the cracked dikes which have kept unions out of the American banking field for so long.

Significantly, money began trickling in from none other than the AfL-CIO's Union Label and Service Trades Dept. On Aug. 11, it mailed a $10,000 check to True Davis, National Bank of Washington president. The check was for a certificate of deposit for two years. The letter concluded that "we are pleased to further note that these funds are being deposited in your bank as a result of granting union recognition to the office and Professional Employees International Union to represent bank employees. OPEIU is one of 91 affiliates of our Department. Sincerely, Edward P. Murphy, Secretary-Treasurer."

Thus the huge labor federation's Union Label Department, which generally worries about such matters as the label on the inside of your coat or dress, put the union label on the union dollar.Other departments feel compelled to move in some money.

A few days later, OPEIU Local 2 president John Cahill dispatched a letter to 34 international unions headquartered here. And to five AFL-CIO departments.

Among these unions is the powerful and militant International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. It makes a fetish of the "union label" on its work. And the five AFL-CIO subdivisions include such units as the gung-ho Industrial Union Dept.; the dynamic Maritime Trades Dept. led by the Seafarers' Paul Hall; the Building and Construction Trades Dept., which now so vigorously and with stentorian oratory is battling the spread of non-union work. Obviously when these divisions are approached personally by Cahill and by the OPEIU's director of organization, 6-foot-3, 205-pound, 49-year-old Art Lewandowski, they will find it embarrassing not to move some of their funds into a "union" bank.

The implications here are obvious. The unions, which control or can influence the deposits of billions of dollars over a two -or three-year period, can no longer say the Office and Professional Employees have only small banks on their list of 14 with a union label. The National Bank of Washington is owned by the United Mine Workers, which has some $80 million on deposit there as of a July 1 count.

Note the Cahill letter--note, too, that Brother Cahill hasn't hesitated to picket other unions in Washington when their office staffs decided to strike for more money.

"Dear Sir and Brother: You were recently apprised by the AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland of this local union's success in being selected as the collective bargaining representative... of the National Bank of Washington in this city." Cahill wrote. "Traditionally one of the strongest instruments of self-protection available to the labor movement has been the patronage by its members of union-made goods and services. The National Bank of Washington is the largest bank yet organized in the U.S."

Then Cahill hits home with "your support in showing that union money follows a union label will bring additional employees in other banks the benefits of collective bargaining."

Thus, as the Chinese say, the first small step begins the longest journey. Coughlin and his colleagues, in effect, are saying to the rest of the labor movement, put your millions even billions, where your mouth is. America is one of the few lands across the world where bank employees are not unionized. And money talks

Mixed Drink License Granted At Charleston

CHARLESTON - The first license to serve mixed drinks was tentatively granted to Storming Bull Restaurant.

The Liquor Control Committee of the City Council granted the license, subject to the restaruant's meeting state and county requirements.

Members of the committee are Dr. Lowell Nicholas, Dr. T. P. Fenton and Sam Story.

Two other applications for license are pending. These include one from Budweiser Tavern, operated by Wilbur (Bo) French, and 33 Club, operated by Verlon Uthoff.

City Manager Richard Martin said he understands the liquor committee plans to consider the two remaining applications at the Sept. 12 meeting of the City Council.

Charleston voters approved the sale of mixed drinks at a special election on June 9. Prior to that election, the council said no more than three liquor licenses would be issued, and said they would be restricted to establishments capable of seating 100 persons and serving three meals a day at least six days per week.

The actual ordinance adoped after the elction permits issuance of a license prior to the meeting of these requirements, and gives the license holder up to six months to bring seating capacity and food service up to the required standard.

Fire Damages Madrid Church

NEW MADRID — A fire was reported at 6 a.m. today at Mt. Olive Missionary Baptist Church on Missouri Street by James Jamerson, a contractor who is building an addition onto the rear of the church.

Jamerson reported he noticed the fire soon after opening the church and turning on some lights.

Firemen were able to confine the blaze to the altar area where it originated. Estimated damage is unknown.

Rotary District Youth Exchange Officer Named

CARUTHERSVILLE- District Rotary Club Governor Horace Dunagan has announced the appointment of a District 609 youth exchange officer for the 39 Rotary clubs in the southeast quadrant of Missouri.

Dunagan explained that the youth exchange officer will co-ordinate one - year exchange agreements between clubs in Southeast Missouri and other Rotary clubs around the world. Prior to the creation of the new post, clubs in this area seeking exchange agreements for high school age youths initiated the relationships on an individual club basis.

Dunagan said he learned of the district youth exchange officer plan used in other districts while attending the Rotary International Assembly at Lake Placid, N.Y., last May. He said he hopes the new procedure would encourage more Rotary clubs to participate in the international program which inludes 15,376 clubs and approximatley 723,000 members in 149 countries.

Named to the new post is Lee G. Cochran, a member of the Jackson Rotary Club, a former district governor of Rotary and a member of the organization since 1955.

Young men and women in Southeast Missouri who are interested in the Rotary exchange program may contact an officer or member of their local Rotary Club for details on the international program.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bone

Bone-Washburn

First Baptist Church was the setting Aug. 26 at 11 a.m. for the wedding of Nancy Elizabeth Washburn and Michael James Bone. The Rev. Joe Williams performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ada Crawford, 823 Ruth St., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bone of Bertrand Route One.

Mrs. Peggy Sadler was soloist and Mrs. Shirley McCellum was organist.

Her veil of illusion was attached to a daisy-trimmed bonnet crown. She carried a bouquet of white daisies tipped with blue, a red rose and baby's breath with streamers of blue and white.

Flower girl Michelle Bone, sister of the groom, wore a gown of blue and white dotted swiss and matching headdress.

Sibling Rivalry Cooled By Mother's Attention

Dear Ann Landers: A young neighbor of mine has six children under 12 years of age. I have always admired this young woman and marveled at the way she handles her growing family. The children get along beautifully. They are cooperative and mannerly. Yesterday, I learned her secret.

She told me she makes it a point to spend at least ten minutes each day engaged in a personal conversation with each child. This makes them feel "visible." It adds to their self -esteem and reduces the sibling rivalry that most children grow up with. A child doesn't resent a brother or sister who gets parental attention if he gets his share.

Will you please find room in your column for this little nugget, Ann? ---Lady Across the Road

Dear Lady: Here's the nugget and my thanks for allowing me to put it in a showcase for other mothers to see. If every mother who reads your letter will make a special effort to act on your suggestion today, I'll bet they'll be astonished at the results.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the girl who signed herself "Chickadee" and it's after midnight, but I won't sleep tonight unless I write her this letter. She said her fiance has a hot tempter is very suspicious and constantly checking and accusing her of everything under the sun. She closed by saying she can't live with or without him.

I pray that Chickadee will take your advice and ditch the bum. If she has a brain in her head she'll run for her life --in the opposite direction. It may hurt for awhile but better to have a few weeks (or months) of agony than a lifetime of it. Hot tempers don't fade. They get hotter. I know what I am talking about, because I married the same kind of lunatic and I have the scars to prove it.

So many girls think they are going to make a man over after they are married but it never works out that way. I realize this is a pretty tired tune I'm singing, but some people have to hear something 40 times before it soaks in. So, I say to all you Chickadees out there, call me a bore, but do yourselves a favor and listen. ---Learned the Hard Way

Dear Learned: Here's your letter and if just one person gets the message it was worth staying up an extra 30 minutes to write.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm probably old enough to be your mother but I am coming to you for advice because you seem to have good judgment.

I am a widow who recently met another nice woman without a husband. We have gone to the movies together and have had dinner in one another's homes and in restaurants.

The problem is her table manners. They are atrocious. This otherwise genteel woman uses her thumb as a pusher, east stewed chicken with her hands, drips gravy all over the tablecloth, and frequently uses her forefinger to dislodge food from her dentures. At this point I become nauseated. The last time we dined out I simply did not look at her.

Should I drop her or tell her how I feel? Or is there a chance that I am excessively critical and intolerant? ---New Orleans

Dear N. O.: Tell her. If she resents it and discontinues the friendship you have lost nothing. If you don't tell her, you will soon become so annoyed by her grossness that you will eventually attack her on some other grounds and the friendship will be over.

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs" separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a LONG, self -addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346 Chicago, Ill. 60654

Lacks Nickel For Subway Fare, Teacher Jailed

NEW YORK (AP) -- A school teacher has sued the Metropolitan Transportation Authority for having her arrested and jailed the day she lacked part of a $1.45 commuter train fare.

Dolores Montez filed the suit Friday in state Supreme Court, seeking $100,000 damages for the "humiliating experience" last Feb. 2 in Babylon, N.Y.

Riding the MTA's Long Island Rail Road, the suit said, she found only $1.05 in cash and a 35-cent subway token in her purse. The conductor refused them, locked her on the train at Babylon, the last stop, and called Suffolk County Police, who arrested her on a theft of service charge.

Unable to furnish the $25 bail, Mrs. Montez said, she was jailed and forced to sleep on a board.

Dogs Inherit $14 Million

AP- Eighty-one dogs have inherited about $14 million from the estate of their late spinster mistress.

The will of Eleanor E. Ritchey, heir to the Quaker State Refining Corp., was finally settled Monday in Broward County Court following years of litigation.

Miss Ritchey, who died Oct. 14, 1968, at the age of 58, left her then $4.5- million estate to 150 stray dogs.

Her will was contested by a handful of relatives not mentioned.

Meantime, 69 of the dogs have died but assets of the gross estate, mostly invested in Quaker State stock, have grown to about $18 million. Miss Ritchey was the granddaughter of Philip Bayer, who founded Quaker State.

The dogs that Miss Ritchey had cared for, including everything from mutts to pedigrees, now live in an antiseptic, modern clinic on a 180-acre ranch near Deerfield Beach, Fla. Approximately $17,000 is spent each year on the dogs' food and housing, while another $12,000 per year pays for their weekly medical checkups and treatment of illnesses.

Tattooed to prove their membership in the original 150, the animals are separated by sex so as to prevent propagation. Accidential offspring would be eligible to receive benefits from the estate.

Attorneys were unable to find actuarial tables for dogs, but it was decided the bequest to the animals would stay in effect until the last dog is dead or for a maximum of 20 years.

After all the canine heirs succumb, the estate is to be passed on to the Auburn Research Foundation, at Auburn University in Alabama, for study of diseases of small animals.

Relatives contended Miss Ritchey "lost touch with reality" because of a lawsuit by her neighbors that forced her to move the dogs in 1967 to their present home. The neighbors had complained of excessive barking and yelping.

Woman Of The Year Speaker Announced At Charleston

CHARLESTON- L. Goebel Patton, superintendent of schools at West Frankfort, ill., will be the speaker Oct. 12 when the Business and Professional Women's Club presents its seventh annual Woman of the Year Banquet at the Charleston Armory.

Patton, a leading spokesman for education, appears at educational, school board, PTA, religious, civic and fraternal meetings and commencements throughout Illinois and surrounding states.

From 1960 to 1970 Patton was director of public relations for the Illinois Education Association. returning to West Frankfort as superintendent of schools in 1970. He has a 30-year record of service in the West Frankfort school system.

As a member of the boards of directors of the Boy Scout Council, American Cancer Society, and SIU Foundation, Patton has received numerous awards for outstanding service; including an award from the Boy Scouts of America, the Outstanding Citizens Award for servie to the American Cancer Society, and the Southern Illinois University Alumni Service Award.

Applications Being Accepted For One Day Cheerleading Clinic

MARTIN, Tenn. — September -- Applications are being accepted for a one-day professionally conducted cheerleader clinic sponsored by the University of Tennessee at Martin department of physical education.

Planned for high school, junior high and college cheerleaders in Tennessee and surrounding states, the clinic is set for the UMT campus Sept. 25. Registration will begin at 8:15 a.m. and the program will end at 3 p.m.

Miss Bettye Giles, clinic director, says this annual clinic has proved to be of extreme value to all participants. The sportsmanship and crowd control responsibilities of school cheerleaders is often a neglected area of training. The UTM clinic will set standards for the important part of school spirit as well as instructions for new cheers, motions and pep rally ideas, she said.

Gene Cason of the National Cheerleader Association will provide the instruction for the one-day clinic and the UTM cheerleaders will host the event.

Applications for the clinic have already been mailed and should be returned as soon as possible.

Mother And Son United After Being Separated 28 Years Ago During War

Crying "Mutti, Mutti" - the German affectionate term for mother - Manfred Berth smothered Mrs. Vera List with kisses.

Mrs. List, who hadn't seen her son in 27 years, said, "He can't believe the welcome he got here."

About 15- well-wishers were on hand at Orlando airport as Berth, his wife and 3-year-old daughter arrived from Berlin.

Twenty-seven years ago in war - ravaged Berlin, 18-year-old Vera Berth was fleeing across a bombed- out field, clinging to her one-year-old son, when she was stopped by a Russian patrol.

She was told her son was taken to a similar camp for children.

At the German surrender, Vera was released — but she was told her only child had died when an epidemic swept the children's compound.

After working in the British and American zones of Berline, Vera emigrated 10 years later to Ohio. There she met and married Air Force Sgt. Everett List, becoming stepmother to his two children, Jimmy, now 16, and Linda, 14.

List was later transferred to McCoy Air Force Base in Orlando.

In May 1971, Mrs. List received a letter written in German which said simply: "Dearest mother, I guess you are surprised to hear from me. I am your son Manfred, born Aug. 23, 1944..."

Spitz In Gold Rush

MUNICH (AP) — It was a gloriously climactic day for America's aquakids, what with Mark Spitz' magnificent seventh and triumphs by Mike Burton, Karen Moe and Melissa Belote—but the lustre of all that U.S. gold was tarnished by the spectre of doping charges.

Rick DeMont, an asthmatic 16-year-old from San Rafael, Calif., who had already won the 400-meter freestyle last Friday, was ready to go for gold and improve his own world record in the gruelling 1,500 meters.

But only minutes before the race, DeMont was "medically ejected" for having taken Ephedrine, an asthma medication. It's presence was discovered in a routine urine test after his victory in the 400.

"I can't say anything," DeMont said, fighting—and failing—to hold back the tears. "I put it all on my forms. I did everything anybody asked. I have nothing else to say."

With DeMont out of the race, Burton of Sacramento, Calif., streaked to victory, shattering DeMont's record with a clocking of 15:52.58.

"I'm sorry Rick wasn't in the race," said Burton, who finished nearly six seconds ahead of Australian Graham Windeatt, "and I'm not saying I would have beaten him ...."

The ejection from the 1,500 was not, however, the major letdown faced by DeMont. He faced possible loss of his 400 gold as well. The International Olympic Committee's Executive Committee and U.S. swimming officials were meeting overnight and a decision was expected early today.

The German word for the spectacular water hole here is "Schwimmhalle," but it could just as properly be called the "Spitzhalle."

The 22-year-old torpedo from Carmichael, Calif., an Indiana University dental student, owns it outright. Seven times he got into the water and seven times he came out a world recordbreaking winner.

The finale on Monday was in the 400-meter medley relay. Ahead of him, backstroker Mike Stamm of San Diego and breaststroke specialist Tom Bruce of Sunnyvale, Calif., gave the American team the barest of leads over East Germany.

Then Spitz hit the water for his 100-meter butterfly leg—and by the time freestyle anchorman Jerry Heidenreich took over for the final 100, the U.S. kids had an unbeatable 12 or 13-foot lead. The quartest was clocked in a world-record 3:48.16, beating out silver-winning East Germany and thirdplace Canada.

Miss Moe, of Santa Clara, Calif., led a 1-2-3 U.S. sweep in the women's 200-meter butterfly with her world-record mark of 2:15.57. Lynn Colella of Seattle took the silver and Ellie Daniel of Elkins Park, Pa., the bronze.

Miss Belote, of Springfield, Va., who earlier had won the 100-meter backstroke, became a double gold medalist with her 200 backstroke triumph in 2:19.19, also a world record. Susie Atwood of Long Beach, Calif., was second ahead of Donna Marie Gurr of Canada.

If all this "U.S. swimmers swept ... " and "new world record ... " business seems repetitive, it is. The U.S. men, for example, grabbed 10 of the 18 golds available and took eight silvers and eight bronzes. And the women won eight of 14 golds, plus five silvers and four bronzes. In all, world marks were set in 23 of 29 events and no record from Mexico City's 1968 Games—not one—was left intact.

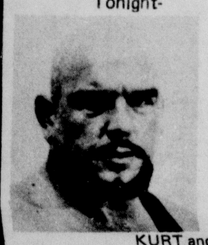

U.S. men should be so fortunate on the track. They got aced out again Monday in a race which, for decades, virtually had a "made in America" stamp on it.

Valery Borzov, who earlier won the 100-meter dash, became the first non-American to sweep the sprints as he won the 200 meters in 19.99 seconds, beating Larry Black of Miami to the wire by a fifth of a second.

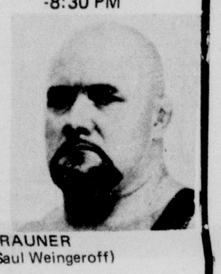

Despite being second best, Black was not impressed by Borzov. "To me he's a clown," he said. "He's always running and looking around to see who's near him. If he can run and win that way, all right. But the day's going to come when he's going to look around too much."

Northern Outlook

It looks like 1972 might be the year of the Big Orange Machine in SeMo Conference Northern Division football races. The only coach who voiced the opinion that Cape Girardeau Central wasn't the odds-on choice to win a fourth consecutive title was Bengal Coach Gary Lynch, and it appeared he was being "a bit modest."

Here is the way it looks now at the various schools:

CAPE GIRARDEAU

CCHS is loaded. So, what else is new? Sixty-seven prospects remain at Central, by far the largest squad in the conference, and many are returning lettermen.

Coach Lynch said this year's squad will be a "physical" team. Backs Bruce Fee and Paul Schermann beef up the running attack, and Don Zimmer promises to be one of the top passers in the district. Several talented ends dot the roster and, as usual, the team is loaded with quality lineman, a rare commodity in some parts.

The Central game plan for this year is one of variety. "We will throw 10 to 15 times a game," Lynch said.

Kevin Mitchell, 225-pound tackle is a standout returnee. Willie Colon, a two-year starter, returns to beef up the secondary.

In summary, Central appears to have an improved offense to go with the traditionally tough defense. The Tigers must be rated solid favorites for another first place finish.

CHARLESTON

1972 appears to be a rebuilding year for new Coach Joe Black at Charleston. The Blue Jays lost heavily through graduation. Black got a shock on the first day of practice when only 17 players showed up. Others have since joined the team, but the total of players - now 28 - still leaves a serious depth problem.

"We are trying to set up a tough program," Black said. "We want to develop tough football players."

Not only do the Jays lack depth, but size as well. The offensive line averages near the 160-pound mark, and most lineman are inexperienced.

The backs are quick and hard-hitting, so the running attack will depend on the development of the linemen.

The defense, as well, is inexperienced, but the players have been enthusiastic.

A new coach, Black has a tough season ahead, but he is optimistic, expressing confidence of a creditable showing by his young squad. His main problem appears to be the fact that Charleston is having a "down" season at the same time nearly every other team in the conference is up.

JACKSON

Injuries have been light at Jackson, and 58 boys remain as the Black and Red point to the initial encounter Friday with always tough Dexter.

When they face the Bearcats, the Indians will place an offensive line on the field with an average of 190 pounds per man, good size for high school, and the defense is even bigger.

Jackson's best running back returning appears to be 180-pound fullback Lawrence Swann. Other quality performers returning for Webber are Ted and Fred Leimer and Mike Litzenfelder, all checking in around the 160 mark.

But, despite all that running talent available, any team that sets up to stop the rush is in for a rude awakening. Junior quarterback Mark Jones returns after running the team part-time last year. Webber says Jones has "one of the best arms around." The offense will be almost split, half and half, between running and passing.

Jackson with the veteran team, should rate solid title consideration, which the Indians have never won. With a bit of luck, history could be made in 1972.

KENNETT

"We're well satisfied." That's the word from Kennett, where the Indians return 11 of 22 starters including seven of 11 on offense. The entire backfield returns intact, led by 175-pound quarterback David Tippen, his third year as a starter for Coach Bill Arment. Others with him in the backfield are Bill Wilkey, a 180-pound fullback. Also, Mike Kranz and Robert Pulliam are running backs.

Kennett has good size. The offensive line will average around 175 and the defense slightly larger. Many players return with playing time from last year. The defense, despite losing seven starters will be solid and capable.

The team does not have great speed, but good runners are not always the fastest ones. The runners playing for Kennett are all solid ballplayers, several starting for their third year, an added cohesiveness that can't hurt the Indians.

Other standouts returning for Arment this year are Ward Billing, Tony Miller and ricky Fort, all linemen. Billings weighs 175 pounds and is a guard. Miller, Kennett's center, checks in at 185, and Fort, a tackle, weighs 185 pounds.

Kennett opens the season Friday with Malden. Malden will see very few traces of the Kennett Indians who were infamous for the fantastic 27-game losing streak a few years ago. Coach Arment looks for a tough fight from Malden. "Ty are always in fine shape," Arment said. "They've got a good coach and he teaches them well."

Kennett would have to be a solid choice for second this year. The Indians have a good shot at the title and seem to be solid up and down the lineup.

PERRYVILLE

The Perryville Pirates, as always, are small. This hasn't hurt them in the past and shouldn't figure to hurt them this year. They are inexperienced this year and that could hurt. Only three starters are coming back off of last year's 8-1-1- club. Among the missing is All-Stater Mark Gotto.

Perryville, most likely, will feature good backs this year. They are lacking on speed, but they had little speed last year and everyone in the backfield amassed more than 700 yards, individually.

Two players returning from last year's second-place squad are depended on heavily. The two are David Meyr, a 190-pound tackle, and Steve Meier, a 170-pound guard.

The offense, as in the past, will run, run, run. It's the old "three yards and a cloud of dust" theory, but, at Perryville, it has been very effective over the years.

Perryville is, in a way, like Bob Gibson. Every year people try to write the Pirates off, saying they lack size or speed, or something. But, the Pirates always come back and win. This year could be no exception. They don't seem to have enough quality ballplayers around to win, but don't count Coach Terry Smith's troops out of the picture yet.

POPLAR BLUFF

Another of the three new coaches in the conference is Tom Telle at Poplar Bluff. But wait, he's not new. No, Telle has been at Bluff before. He had a one-year leave of absence as he moved northward to coach Maplewood - St. Louis for a season after serving as a Mule assistant coach and as head man at Dexter.

Well, he's back and seems to be very optimistic. "We're young," Telle said, "and we'll make mistakes. Twenty-one of the 38 players on the roster are sophomores. But the youngsters are eager and responsive and are "working very well together," according to the coach.

The Bluff crew has average size. The offensive line averages 175 pounds per man, and, defensively, the Mules are about the same.

There is not exceptional speed, but, in senior backs Bennie Holt and Tuttie Hayes, there is good quickness. Because of this, the Mules will run predominantly, using the pass only if they have to. Another running back that MUST be mentioned is J. B. Hayes. Starting for the third year, the 205-pounder is the largest man for the Purple and White. Because of his size and strength, Hayes is a powerful runner and possibly the best in the district.

The pressure is on untried John Casey, the new quarterback, as PB attempts to catch the Tigers of Cape and win the conference for the first time since 1966.

SIKESTON

"We are ready." First year man Pete Cirrintano voiced his optimism about his squad. Fourth-three remain of the original 69 after three weeks of practice. Depth is a serious problem because of the desertion of 16 players who would have certainly logged some playing time. "They will regret their decision," the new mentor said.

The Bulldogs' first game Friday will see them travel to Farmington to play the Knights. Farmington will field a veteran team, with 26 seniors. By comparison, Sikeston will produce 8 to 10 upperclassmen from a school twice as big as Farmington. Last year Farmington advanced to the state playoffs and lost in the finals 29-22 to Fulton.

The Bulldogs this year will have the most speed of any Sikeston team since 1968. Curtis Bean, a track star for Sikeston last spring,

Big 8 Powers Lead AP Poll

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — "Your ... damn polls don't mean a thing until the season's over. Quote me exactly on that!"

That is Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney's message to poll takers and reporters. Especially those who call him at night.

Devaney was asked his reaction to the first Associated Press preseason poll, released over the weekend, in which his Cornhuskers, who are shooting for an unprecedented third straight national title, are ranked No. 1.

Devaney was reached by phone at his home shortly after 10:30 (CDT) Monday night. Efforts to reach him earlier in the evening proved futile. Devaney told a reporter he "picked a helluva time to call," and then gave his opinion of polls in general.

The latest Devaney reaction to the way his team is shaping up in general came earlier Monday, after he had finished evaluating films of a preseason scrimmage held Saturday.

"I think we over-praised our defense," he said. "They weren't as good as we had thought."

NU's top offensive and defensive units trounched a scout team, which was running UCLA formations, 39-7. As Devaney saw it, "for the amount of experience and the time they've been together, they (the scout team) did too good a job of running plays against our defense."

Devaney classified the mistakes as mental as well as physical, and said veterans were as guilty as the rookies.

The Husker coach also said he had not picked his starting quarterback. Candidates for the post include David Humm, Steve Runty and Terry Luck.

The Huskers face their first test against another currently ranked team when they meet No. 2 Colorado Nov. 4 Nebraska faces No. 6 Oklahoma on Thanksgiving Day.

The initial poll saw Ohio State No. 3 followed by Arkansas and Penn State.

Alabama, soundly defeated by Devaney's proteges in last year's Orange Bowl game, was ranked seventh, followed by Southern Cal, Washington, Michigan, Louisiana State, Arizona State, Notre Dame, Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Purdue, Florida State, and Stanford.

The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses, last season's records and total points. Points based on 20-18-1614-12-10-9-8, etc.

Expos Close In On Birds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Montreal got the best of veteran hurler Bob Gibson 1-0 Monday but the St. Louis Cardinals rebounded in the second game of a Labor Day doubleheader to defeat the Expos 8-7.

The split kept St. Louis in fourth place in the National League East, just two game ahead of the Expos.

A crowd of 12,427 was on hand for the holiday twin bill. They watched Cardinals Jim Bibby take the second game victory for his first win in the major leagues. Bibby is up from the American Association Cardinal farm club at Tulsa, Okla., whre he won 13 and lost ine this season.

Montreal collected three firstinning runs off Bibby. "After that, I got a few curve balls over and did better," he said.

Expos Carl Morton recorded his first shutout in two years in downing St. Louis 1-0 during the opener. Morton's record went to 6-12. Gibson, still looking forward to another 20-victory season, stands at 15-9.

"I tried to mtch Gibson zero for zero," Morton commented. "That's how I approached the game. Once we got the run, I relaxed a little. But I haven't pitched well enough to stay around ver long."

Montreal's winning tally came off Gibson in the fifth in a base on balls, a ground-out and the run-scoring single by Bob Bailey.

"If we play well and finished ahead of the Cardinals it will be gratifying," Expos skipper Gene Mauch said. "But if they just finish behind us, it's nothing."

St. Louis manager Red Schoendienst plans to use rookie infielders Mike Tyson and Ken Reitz in tonight's final contest with the Expos. After that the Cardinals leave town for a nine-day trip that begins in Philadelphia, Wednesday.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Defending titlist Torsten Johansson of Sweden has defeated Homer Richards of Charlottesville, Va., 6-2, 6-1 to move into the semifinals of the United States Senior Grass Court Tennis Championship.

will line up at one setback spot. Curtis, a 165-pound senior, was a starter last year until a broken ankle shelved him in the Perryville game. "Bean can run the 40-year dash consistently in 4.6 seconds," Coach Cirrintano said. "Pro football cornerbacks must only beat 4.7."

The other back is also a returning starter, 175-pound fullback Jessie Smith. Smith was forced into the starting lineup by injuries as a sophomore last year, then he was forced out by an injury. He seems to have completely recovered from last season's shoulder separation and should provide Cirrintano with a strong and exciting power runner for the next two years.

The entire team seems to revolve around quarterback Bill Colwick right now. The 185-pound senior was a devastating passer last year, throwing for over 130 yards per game. This year he must balance the attack and run the ball more himself. In addition to capable backs, he has standout receiver Glenn Guttenfelder to throw to, as well as Rick Eisenbach, who has been a very pleasant surprise to Cirrintano.

The team is well disciplined, according to the coach, and seems to be working together very well. The big probelm is the mistakes the inexperienced players keep making. If the Dogs can eliminate the mistakes, they could very well sneak in and win the title for the first time since 1968. Right now they rate as the darkhorse choice, but were very definitely mentioned by all of the coaches.

WORLD TAG TEAM wrestling champions Kurt and Karl Van Brauner will be featured in a special main event at the American Legion building tonight at 8:30. They are pictured with manager, Saul Weingeroff.

Memphis Legion Favorites

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Pitching-rich Memphis goes after its second American Legion World Series title in the last five years tonight.

Two games scheduled for Monday were postponed by rain. Today's forecast is for less than 20 per cent chance of rain, with partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures.

Memphis, which won the Legion series in 1968, carries a 499 record into tonight's game. The Memphis squad's opponent will be the winner of an earlier game today between El Cerrito, Calif., 40-9 and Ballwin, Mo., 42-8.

Memphis has received three glittering pitching performances in the series and is the only unbeaten squad in the double-elimination tourney.

Both El Cerrito and Ballwin have lost one, meaning either will have to beat Memphis two straight to win the title.

If Memphis loses tonight, the final series game will be Wednesday night.

Chicago Team Is Slo-Pitch Champs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Chicago Carluccis won their sixth national championship and their fourth straight game Monday night with a 14-5 drubbing of the Chicago American Rivets in the American Softball Association's 16-Inch slow pitch national tournament here.

The Carluccis, a team founded in 1942, collected 16 hits including shortstop Al Ceck's two-run homer in the first. Ed Zolna, 43, was the winning pitcher allowing nine hits. Ceck led the team with six RBI's.

It was the second loss handed to the Rivets by the Carluccis Monday. The Rivets lost 5-1 to the Carluccis in the finals of the winners' bracket competition, and the Rivets earned a second shot when they defeated a team from Champaign, Ill., 10-4 in the last game of the losers' bracket.

The Rivets, who ended the tourney with a 4 and 2 record, would have had to beat Carluccis twice Monday night, while Carluccis 6 and 0 in tourney play, needed only one victory over the Rivets.

Study Area Restricted

ROLLA -- One of Missouri's few streams with a spawning population of rainbow trout has been closed to fishing by the Conservation Commission.

Wilkins Spring and Spring Branch and part of Mill Creek in the Clark National Forest will be closed to fishing and the taking of any other wildlife for five years to give researchers a chance to study the almost unique natural spawning trout population. About one mile of stream is to be closed.

The closure had been requested by the U. S. Forest Service, which administers the Clark Forest and by Spence Turner, trout biologist with the Department of Conservation.

The closed area will be posted for the benefit of fishermen in the rest of the stream.

Mechanic Building Home On Kansas River Island

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Warren Freeman always wanted a home on the river and now he's building a one-room cabin on an island in the Kaw River.

"It's not that I don' like people," the 50-year-old mechanic said. "It's just that I like it here. I've always loved the river.

"No one was using the island and I'm not going to use it to make money. I just want a peaceful place to live."

The island is downstream from the west Kansas Avenue bridge in Kansas City, Kan. it is heavily wooded. Freeman commutes by boat, leaving his car parked on a nearby bank.

W. E. Steps of the Kansas Water Resources Board, said the state owns the river beds from bank to bank and probably owns the island although he has found no record.

"If he isn't intefering with the flow of the river or commerce on it, he can probably stay. I don't think he is breaking the law," Steps said.

"I used to just go to the bar and waste my time and money," said Freeman "That wasn't the way to go. So I started using that money to buy lumber and the time to build this house. I've been working on the house about three months, usually nights after I get off work." he added.

Robert B. Cooke, director of water pollution control for the city, made a cursory inspection of the island afterward told Freeman:

"You're doing something I bet a lot of people would like to do."

TV Hits Quarter Century Mark

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television, that infant among entertainment mediums, has reached the quarter century mark.

From Milton Berle to Flip Wilson, "Ozzie and Harriet" to "All in the Family," Gorgeous George to the Olympics, fuzzy siz-inch sets to solid-state color models and kinescopes to satellites, television has come a long way in 25 years.

Television, which has seldom considered its past beyond the value of a rerun, is taking a nostalgic look back at its tender years on the day before the fall season begins. Numerous stars from the past and present are participating.

Appropriately enough, this sentimental journey was undertaken not by a network but by an independent production company, Cooper-Finkel. The show, "A Salute to Television's 25th Anniversary," will be seen on ABC Sunday, Sept. 10.

"There are things you forget about," said Jackie Cooper, who put together film clips of TV's past and whose own participation in the medium reaches back to its earliest days.

"'American Bandstand' and 'Victory at Sea.' It's all part of television if you're paying tribute to it.

"You say, where do you put 'Pantomime Quiz'? It's a lot of fun to look at it. It's fun to see 'PLayhouse 90.' It's exciting to see MacArthur addressing Congress. You take the kid shows and show what's happened from 'Howdy Doody' to 'Sesame Street.'"

In all, Cooper assembled 35 minutes of clips from old shows to be shown on the 90-minute special. He had a team of researchers digging up old films — often times found stored in a star's garage. Cooper said he was saddened by the shabby treatment of television's past product and would like to see the establishment of a library similar to the American Film Institute.

Cooper had another problem with the old film. He said, "We had to stop the lab from improving it. They were retiming the film. It didn't look antiquiated enough. We didn't want it to look like it was shot yesterday."

Most of the show will be taken up by song- and - dance production numbers keyed to television and by the presentation of awards voted by the board of governors of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

As much as anything, the salute to television will be a study in contrasts. "It's fun to watch Jim Arness grow and change in "Gunsmoke,"" Cooper said. "We have a clip of Arness and Amanda Blake in the first show and then 17 years later. The difference in their acting is amazing."

Not only have acting styles changed, but so has the medium itself. Programs have grown more slick and sophisticated. Movies have replaced original drama as the dramatic format. Comedy is moving steadily toward realism. Westerns once dominated the tube — in all, 61 have galloped down the road — and are now in decline.

Television's own tools also became more sophisticated and they are employed throughout the show. Marty Pasetta, producer - director, said, "We shot the show in about eight different sessions because we couldn't get everyone together at the same time."

Chroma Key and video tape — undreamed of at the inception of television — are the means by which the stars are made to appear to be conversing with each other. Chroma Key is a means by which different images can be electronically matted into one picture.

"Even in the production numbers we use TV tools," said Pasetta. "When Polly Bergen sings 'How Sweet It Was,' we have 16 dancers. On the air it will look like 64 dancers."

Among those appearing will be Lucille Ball, Bob Hope, Sid Caesar, Milton Berle, Dinah Shore, Loren Greene, Ed Sullivan, Florence Henderson, George C. Scott, Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Judith Anderson, Jimmy Durante, Robert Young, John Wayne and James Arness. It was Wayne who suggested Arness for the role of Matt Dillon in "Gunsmoke" and did the first on-the-air prome for the show.

Not every star of television's past was willing to cooperate, Cooper said, and some refused to allow any film clips to be used. In those cases, he said, publicity still photographs are used.

To Make Film In St. Joseph

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A sizable segment of a Paramount Pictures Corp. film starring Ryan O'Neal and his 9-year-old daughter, Tatum, will be shot in and around St. Joseph this fall.

Several scenes are to be filmed at the St. Charles Hotel.

Frank Marshall, associate producer, and Neil Canton, assistant to the director, revealed plans for the movie Thursday.

The film was described as a light romantic comedy set around 1935 and with O'Neal playing the role of a traveling con man.

Marshall said plans are to begin shooting in St. Joseph and vicinity around Nov. 8 or 9.

A crew of 55-60 will be on hand for the five weeks of filming planned here.

A major portion of the film will be made in and around Hays, Kan. beginning Sept. 25.

The film is entitled "Addie Pray" and is based on a novel by Joe David Brown.

The title likely will be changed before production is completed, Marshall said.

Refus To Try To Fill Fraziers Track As Lover

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A Wichita lion named Rufus is facing a king-sized task.

He has been purchased from the city's Riverside Zoo by Lion Country Safari in California as a replacement for mighty Frasier, the aged king of beasts who fathered 35 cubs and became a household name.

Rufus, who came to Wichita in May, 1961, from Clifty Acres game farm in Madison, Ind., heads west Thursday to face the challenge of inheriting seven widows of the late Frasier and the 35 cubs.

Frasier died several weeks ago. He achieved his international fame when at the age of about 20, which is more than 85 in a human male, he won over the pride of seven lionesses.

Previously, the females had rejected a host of young males.

Frasier increased Lion Country Safari's lion population by a third in an astonishing 16-months.

Jerry Korbin, Lion Country vice president, said Wednesday that Rufus will arrive in Los Angeles Thursday by air freight. He said Rufus looks like a worthy successor.

"He has always displayed the willingness but lacked cooperative mates and the proper breeding environment," Korbin said.

Ed Scofield, zoo keeper at Wichita's Riverside Park, said Rufus should fit into his new role as head of the pride if he is given a little time to adjust.

"I think Rufus can make the adjustment," he said.

Rufus, Scofield said, has fathered three cubs at Wichita's zoo. But in each case the mother of the cubs killed them before the zoo keepers could remove them from the mother.

Rufus was born in 1957 on the Indiana game farm. His mate, Judy II, died in December 1970.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Feminine Gem

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Georgie was gay, but he wasn't very happy. Working for the federal government as a financial analyst, his superiors took a dim view of his confusing gender. In fact, he was ultimately fired from his civil service job on the grounds that his off -duty immoral conduct adversely affected the efficiency of the service.

"What do they mean by my immoral off -duty conduct?" he protested. "After 5:00 p.m., my time is my own. If I choose to fill it with men that's my own personal business. And under no circumstances does my after -hours activities adversely influence the efficiency of the service. Until 5 p.m. I'm an expert in my field. After 5 p.m., it does not matter."

"It's not that simple," was the opposition. "Georgie's immoral sexual relationships makes him a subject for blackmail. And that makes him a security risk. Besides, just having him around is embarrassing to the agency. While he may be a gem as a financial analyst, his high pitched voice could shatter a diamond."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order Georgie reinstated?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! While he conceded that there were times when an employee's sexual conduct might bear on the efficiency of the service, it was not so, he held, in this case. Georgie, observed the judge, did his work well, was not employed in a sensitive area where blackmail might be attempted nor did he impose himself upon others.

A government agency, concluded the judge, cannot support a dismissal as promoting the efficiency of the service merely by shaking its head and crying shame despite the potential embarrassment.

Different facts and circumstances, of course, could produce a different decision it was noted.

Nixon-McGovern Now Face Main Campaign Stretch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both President Nixon and challenger George S. McGovern appeared relaxed and confident today as they faced the main stretch in their presidential campaigns.

Nixon, who was in San Clemente, Calif., for the Labor Day holiday, planned to travel to San Francisco today to meet with his Citizens Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality. He was to fly to Washington afterward.

McGovern carried his Democratic campaign into Seattle, Portland, Ore., and Los Angeles, while his running mate, Sargent Shriver, was in Boston and planned other stops at Portland, Maine; Springfield, Mass., and Albany, N.Y.

Labor Day is the traditional starting time for the presidential campaign which ends with the election on Nov. 7, although the campaigning actually started much earlier.

Nixon's trip to San Francisco was described as non-political, and there were no public appearances planned. He was to meet aboard a ferryboat with the environmental group to discuss a proposal for a Golden Gate National Recreation Area in California.

In Seattle, McGovern urged federal help to create 25,000 jobs at the Boeing Co., whose aircraft production operations here have been severely curtailed by lack of work. He proposed cleaner and quieter engines for commercial jets.

He criticized a statement by AFL-CIO President George Meany that McGovern is an "apologist" for Communist bloc countries. He said Meany's statement was "total nonsense" and added, "I don't think the American people believe it."

McGovern said in remarks prepared for Portland that the Nixon administration has ignored problems of the elderly. He called for a minimum monthly Social Security payment of $150 for aged, blind and disabled Americans. He also advocated a complete pension reform program and national health insurance.

McGovern planned to spend tonight in Los Angeles.

Shriver, talking with newsmen in Syracuse, N.Y., and in Boston, Monday, implied that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans were "apparently involved" in the alleged bugging of Democratic National headquarters in Washington.

Dole Claims Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole says he has found seven more violations of political finance laws by Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign.

Sen. Dole, R-Kan., last week alleged several other violations by the Democrats, and Monday said, "These further apparent violations confirm my belief that McGovern is playing fast and loose with the election laws and deceiving the American public ..."

But McGovern's national political director, Frank Mankiewicz, replied that Dole's accusations were "contemptible and totally lacking in substance."

President Nixon's campaign finances already are under investigation after the General Accounting Office declared on Aug. 26 that there were "apparent and possible" violations involving GOP campaign funds.

The GAO also is looking into McGovern campaign finances.

Dole said one apparent violation is a contribution of at least $50,000 by Playboy magazine publisher Hugh Hefner, which, Dole said, was divided into several $2,500 individual contributions so Hefner could avoid payment of federal taxes.

Viets Hope Progressives Will Protect Prisoners

HONG KONG (AP) — North Vietnam said Monday it hoped that "progressive Americans" would protect three prisoners of war to be released from being "transformed by the Nixon administration into an instrument in the service of the U. S. war of aggression in Vietnam."

The statement, published in the official Nhan Dan daily and broadcast by Radio Hanoi, followed an earlier North Vietnamese warning that the three men "must not be used by the U. S. administration" to slander North Vietnam's "humane and lenient policy."

If the released POWs are used for that purpose, Hanoi said, it would be against the "interests of the families of other captured U. S. pilots in North Vietnam."

Today's Nhan Dan said it was feared the U. S. government would try to "again force these men — as it did with earlier released prisoners — into becoming instruments of slander and instruments in the service of the U.S. aggressive war."

It repeated earlier statements that men previously freed had, at the time of their release, praised North Vietnam for its "humane and lenient policy" but subsequently had been forced by U. S. officials to "slander our government's treatment of captured prisoners."

Believe us, when you're playing cards with a friend of ours, you're not gambling.

Everyone has his or her bad days, but why do they bunch ours together a week at a time?

Four Arrested In Charleston

CHARLESTON — Four arrests were reported by police over the Labor Day weekend.

Appearing this morning before Judge Frank Gillespie were L. D. Farmer, 52, of Charleston, public intoxication, fined $17; Johnny Ewing, 23, Charleston, fighting and disturbing the peace, fined $15; and F. C. Clark, 28, Charleston, careless and imprudent driving, fined $17.

Bobby Joe Johnson, 31, Charleston, fighting and disturbing the peace, forfeited a $25 bond.

One Arrested

EAST PRAIRIE — Only one arrest was reported by police over the Labor Day weekend.

Thomas Elbert Hooper of Paducah, Ky., was fined $100 on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

State Wide Phone Web Starts Oct. 6

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A 16-city telephone system connecting state agencies will go into effect Oct. 6, United Telephone Co officials said today.

The system will eliminate long-distance calls from a state agency in one city to a state agency in another city.

All state agencies outside the 15 cities hooked up to Jefferson City will have access to the system. It will be implemented jointly by United, Southwestern Bell, General Telephone and Western Telephone.

An employe in a state agency in Jefferson City, for example, will be able to reach a state agency in Rolla by dialing an access code and four digits.

The calls will be direct dialed, although state operators will work with the system. Persons calling from outside a state agency can still be connected to various departments by an operator.

Cities to be linked with Jefferson City are Columbia, St. Louis, Kansas City, Rolla, Hannibal, Fulton, Farmington, Cape Girardeau, Joplin, Kirksville, Macon, Poplar Bluff, St. Joseph, Springfield and Willow Springs.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 5, the 249th day of 1972. There are 117 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date:

In 1905, the Treaty of Portsmouth, N.H., ended the RussoJapanese War.

In 1914, during World War I, German forces captured the French city of Rheims.

In 1939, the United States proclaimed neutrality in World War II.

In 1945, the American flag was raised on Wake Island after Japanese forces surrendered.

In 1963, three white schools scheduled for integration in Birmingham, Ala., were closed on orders of Gov. George C. Wallace.

Ten years ago: At the United Nations, 31 nations pledged $86 million in cash and commodities in the first cooperative attempt to relieve hunger in poor nations.

Five years ago: The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the United States was trying to develop pure fusion nuclear weapons which would have no fallout and still was trying to develop a neutron bomb.

One year ago: The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington put on its first public performance—a preview of Leonard Bernstein's new "Mass."

END OF DRAFT EXPECTED TO HAVE LITTLE EFFECT ON MISSOURI NATIONAL GUARD

JEFFERSON CITY — The end of the military draft, announced August 28th by President Nixon, will apparently have little effect on the units of the Missouri National Guard, according to Col. Kirby Goldblum, executive officer of the Missouri Guard. Col. Goldblum said that an intensive recruitment program has been in effect for ten months in Missouri. As a result, the strength of the Guard is running only slightly below the authorized levels.

"The young men of Missouri have been very responsive to an enlightened and energetic recruiting program on the part of Guard personnel," said Col. Goldblum. He expects that the under-staffing will end shortly as both Army and Air National Guard units are coming up to strength rapidly.

The new recruitment program was devised and implemented by Missouri Adjutant General L. B. Adams. Officers and men from each Missouri Guard Unit are trained for recruiting duty in their home towns.

Recruitment and Retention Officer Col. Jess Henson took over his office when the new program was implemented. He says that the Guard has no plans to offer incentives or bonuses to entice enlistments. "There's no need to," said Col. Henson. "Our program emphasizes the benefits the Guard offers in serving your country from your own home town." He added that the job situation being what it is in smaller towns, the monthly duty check looks good to a lot of recruits.

In other areas of the county concern was expressed that the end of the draft might affect National Guard units by encouraging volunteers to go into the new volunteer army instead of the Guard.

Col. Goldblum says that the new smaller volunteer army will call for increased importance of the National Guard and the Army Reserves in terms of their being a larger part of the entire national defense picture. "This has been recognized by Defense Secretary Melvin Laird," said Col. Goldblum, "because the National Guard is now being issued rapidly increasing amounts of military material."

Future training for the Guard is going to be different, too. Members will be trained in the use of the nation's most sophisticated weapons and equipment. Units will do active duty training and summer training at bases which emphasize effective combat training.

The Guard will continue its service to the state in times of emergencies. The last time the Guard was mobilized into an emergency situation was following a flood in the Joplin area when the 203rd Engineer's Battalion was sent to patrol and aid the area.

Col. Henson summed it up: "The Missouri National Guard will continue to be an effective part of this nation's defense system as well as a valuable citizen of the state of Missouri."

4. The ultimatum deadline would run out within three hours.

5. In the event the ultimatum is not heeded, orders would be given "to carry out revolutionary and just force in order to give the war chiefs of the Israeli war machine a hard lesson."

Dr. Manfred Schreiber, the Munich chief of police, told a news conference the West German government offered the terrorists an unlimited sum of money to call off their siege. The police also offered to send in substitute hostages if the Arabs would release the Israeli athletes.

Schreiber said the Arabs refused.

Officials said one of the dead men was the team's wrestling trainer, Moshe Weinberg, 32, a former Israeli champion.

Novel Tells Of Mythical Asia Country

We are well aware of the duties of servicemen, ranging from heroics in combat to KP duty. But we know less about that special group of government workers whose purpose is to help keep the peace by squashing international rumblings and to offer assistance in various ways.

Here is an interesting novel, by a former Foreign Service Information Officer, explaining the operations of these government career people who usually remain in the shadows of obscurity.

Terrorists Hold Israelis

Suspend Olympics

MUNICH (AP) — Arab terrorists with submachine guns broke into the Olympic Village today and killed two Israelis. They held a dozen others hostage against a demand for release of Arabs held for terrorists activity.

The games will be suspended later today, the International Olympic Committee announced, and a memorial service for the Israeli dead will be held Wednesday. The games presumably will resume after that.

The Arab invaders carried boxes of explosives. They threatened to kill all the hostages unless 200 Arab terrorists held in Israel were released.

Israel had asked that the games be halted, and Premier Golda Meir denounced the attackers as murderers.

The deadline for action on the terrorists' demands was first set for noon—7 a.m. EDT. Then it was extended to 2 p.m., and later to 5 p.m.—noon EDT.

A police lieutenant told AP correspondent Will Grimsley there was a plan to storm the Israeli headquarters if the 5 p.m. deadline passed without resolution of the issues. Army tanks were pulled up in front of the building.

The police lieutenant said 38 police volunteers were ready to carry out the plan of attack.

Small groups of demonstrators inside and outside the Olympic Village called for the games to be halted.

About 50 young people marched among the milling crowds outside the village with banners reading "Stop sport."

They sang in English "We Shall Overcome," the song of the U.S. civil rights movement in the 1960s.

The song was heard coming from groups of athletes inside the village, too.

Chancellor Willy Brandt called a meeting of the West German Cabinet, then flew to Munich from Bonn to supervise in the negotiations.

Police surrounded the Israel building and negotiated with the terrorists.

The raid, a daring and apparently well-planned operation, was carried out by about five men with blackened faces. Theh climbed over the fence surrounding the village and made straight for the building, also occupied by the teams of Uruguay and Hong Kong.

The terrorists tossed a paper out of a window of the Isr eli quarters. It bore the title "Communique" and listed five points of an ultimatum:

1. West Germany must declare itself prepared to bring the Israeli hostages to a place to be specified by the "revolutionary forces" inside the Olympic village.

2. West Germany must provide the guerrillas with three airplanes. The Israelis would be divided into three groups and placed aboard each of the planes. After the first plane left, the other planes would in succession leave as soon as word was received that the previous one had reached the asyet undisclosed destination.

3. Any attempt to interfere with the operation would result in the killing of the hostages. West Germany

Car Rams House, Both Burn

Three Killed On SeMo Highways

Three persons were killed on Southeast Missouri highways during the three-day Labor Day weekend, according to the highway patrol, which reported a total of 44 accidents, resulting in injuries to 33 persons.

Danny Lee Norman, 18, of Campbell was the holiday's first victim, having been pronounced dead on arrival at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis after a collision at 10 p.m. Friday on Highway 62 four miles south of Malden.

Everett Boyster, 17, of St. Louis was killed in a three-car crash Sunday on Highway 32 one mile west of Bixby in Iron County. Boyster lost control of his car, crossed the center line and collided with cars driven by Billy Joe Martin, 18, of Potosi and Kennett Mowrey, 20, of Salem. Boyster and two other injured, Mowrey and a passenger in the Martin car, Mrs. Hazel Martin, were all taken to a hospital in Salem. Boyster was pronounced dead at the hospital.

A two-car mishap at 4:30 p.m. Monday on Route NN eight miles south of Rives took the life of Earnest White, 74, of Hornersville. White pulled his pickup truck from a gravel road into the path of a car driven by Carmelita Harrellson, 23, of Memphis. White was thrown from the car. The Harrellson woman was injured and taken to Baptist Memorial Hospital.

George Lee King, 51, of rural Portageville received minor burns when his house, located off Highway 162 east of Portageville, was rammed by a car driven by Harold L. Butler, 52, of Portageville.

Butler lost control of his car while traveling at a high rate of speed, left the roadway, crossed a field and ran into the house. Both the house and car burned. King was treated at Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti.

Powell To Appear In Drug Case

Arrested Saturday on Highway 53, near Campbell, by Sheriff Raymond Scott and Highway Patrolmen Bud Mills, Jim Pemberton and Gene Duckworth, Powell was under suspicion by Sheriff Scott for dealing in drugs. One thousand amphetamine tablets were confiscated from Powell at the time of arrest.

Powell was arrested in Sikeston in May for carrying a concealed weapon. He was also picked up by Sikeston police in April for questioning after the Post House Restaurant at the Miner interchange of Interstate 55 burned. Arson was suspected in the incident, but no charges were filed.

Council To Discuss Pay For Policemen

The issue of better pay for policemen will be the topic of tonight's City Council meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the City Administrative Building.

City Manager Jim Huff said he will not recommend a pay increase for the police, but will instead recommend more overtime, an increase in the uniform allowance, and straight pay for training time, retroactive to May 1.

Huff said he could not recommend a pay increase without considering the pay rates of other city employes.

For Violating Wildlife Code

Over 35 Arrested

CHARLESTON–Between 35 and 40 arrests were made during the holiday weekend on various charges of violation of the wildlife code.

Art Province, area conservation officer, said charges ranged from over limit of possesion of doves, using unplugged guns, and shooting from moving vehicles to hunting without permits.

Five persons were arrested Sunday at Cape Girardeau Airport in Scott County with 317 doves in their possession. Arrested Monday at an airstrip in Charleston were four persons with 140 birds in their possession. Names of those arrested were not made available pending filing of charges. They are not believed to be area residents.

Daily dove limit is 10 birds and possession limit for a three-day period is 20.

Arkansas Man Pilot Of Missing Aircraft

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Federal Aviation authorities are searching for a single-engine Cessna aircraft believed to have crashed somewhere in the Bootheel over the Labor Day holiday weekend.

Pilot of the lost plane is Clay Callaway, reportedly a schoolteacher from Bald Knob, Ark. Callaway departed from a Searcy, Ark., air field Friday at 3:30 p.m. He has not been in contact with anyone since. He was bound for Ft. Davenport, Iowa.

According to officials at Pine Bluff Flight Service in Pine Bluff, Ark., the major portion of the search is being conducted in the Thayer area near the Arkansas - Missouri state line.

Callaway is thought to be the only person aboard the plane.

House To Vote On Antipoverty Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back at work after a two-week break, the Senate prepared today to vote on granting a cash award to families of policemen and firemen killed on duty, while the House was set to decide on financing the antipoverty program.

Returning following the recess for the Republican National Convention and Labor Day, senators were scheduled to vote on a bill to provide $50,000 taxfree for the family of any policeman, fireman or other public safety officer killed in the line of duty.

House members slated action today on a compromise bill authorizing $4.8 billion for a twoyear extension of the antipoverty program.

Congressional leaders are shooting for adjournment by the end of the month, but it is likely the session will spill over into October because of a number of controversial issues still to be resolved.

The first measure to be voted on by the Senate provides, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1967, for a $50,000 federal payment to the widow or other dependents of public safety officers killed while on duty.

In addition to policemen and firemen, this would include prison guards, national guardsmen and members of the armed forces assigned to maintain civil peace.

An almost-unbroken rise in police killings in the last decade led the administration to request the legislation. Justice Department records list 126 policemen killed in line of duty during 1971, compared to 37 a decade earlier.

The bill also would provide for a payment of $25,000 to an officer for the loss of a foot or a hand or blindness in one eye, and $50,000 for double dismemberment. None of the payments would be subject to federal income taxes.

Another bill to be voted on by the Senate is designed to take the profit out of cargo thefts by authorizing treble-damage suits and other antitrust-type remedies by victims.

The Justice Department said this could serve as a deterrent against fencing and purchase of stolen property. Losses from cargo thefts are estimated at more than $1.5 billion a year.

3 Escapees At Large

CARUTHERSVILLE — Three of six prisoners who escaped from Pemiscot County jail Saturday night returned to custody voluntarily during the weekend. Three others are still being sought.

LeRoy Terry, 24, of Champagne, Ill., Billy Palmer and Thaddeus Pettigrew all walked back to the jail and surrendered themselves to officials Saturday and Sunday.

Palmer, arrested on charges of armed robbery, is thought to be armed and is considered dangerous. The other two are not believed dangerous.

Two Stores Burglarized

NEW MADRID--Breakins reported Friday night at Bennett's Store in LaForge and Fairless Grocery in Kewanee are believed to have been committed by the same person or persons.

About $40 in change was reported stolen from Fairless Grocery.

Bennett's Store was entered through a window in an adjoining garage and then a hole was cut in a door. Fairless Grocery was entered by breaking a window.

Radar Units Used In Stopping 9 Speeders

Police arrested 10 people for speeding in the city over the weekend, nine of whom were caught with radar units.

They include Patsey L. Allen, 602 South West, Carla Regina Walden, 515 East Kathleen; Darrell James Eaves, 618 William; Harvey Bailey, Route Two; Viola Mae Brewer, Route Three; Ella A. Robertson, 710 Commercial Street; Shirley D. Tyrrell, 919 Arlington; Beckey Lancaster, 207 Missouri; Leslie R. Shelby of Karnak, Ill.; and Lee Vaughan, 108 Comstock.

Cecil Thomas Beeson, 215 Harrington, was charged with careless and imprudent driving, resisting arrest and assaulting a police officer; Floyd Avery Caughlin, 223 West Malone, driving while intoxicated; and Mable Norris, 215 Petty, disorderly conduct.

Ricky Washburn, 823 Ruth, was charged with public intoxication; Thomas J. Schaffer of Bertrand, public intoxication, Thomas Shannon, Route Four, Box 164, no operators license; Vester Ross, 112 Cardinal Drive, disorderly conduct, also being held for Allegan County, Mich., on charges of parole violation.

Alfred Alonzo Lawrence, 312 Murray Lane, was charged with peace disturbance; Kather Ann Tipler, Charleston Route Two, public intoxication; Phillip M. Evans, 409 Clayton, careless and imprudent driving, and Janet Bowers of East Prairie, public intoxication.

Auto Stolen From Local Club

An automobile owned by Robert Lee Smith of 1919 Compress Road was stolen sometime between 1 and 5 p.m. Sunday from the Missourian Men's Club on Felker Street, according to police.

The car is described as a black over green 1968 Plymouth two-door hardtop.

Mrs. Bruce Copeland, 840 Mary, reported to police that a stereo tape player and two speakers were taken Saturday night or Sunday morning from her car while it was parked at her home.

The tape player was valued at $59.95. The speakers were worth about $10.

Woman Pleads Guilty To Bogus Check Charge

Glenda Travis was placed on two years' probation today in Magistrate Court by Judge Lloyd Briggs after pleading guilty to charges of cashing $962.37 worth of bogus checks.

Mrs. Travis cashed the checks in area stores in December 1971, and has been living in California since. She has made partial restitution, and the condition of her probation is that she repay the checks in full.

Her husband, Norman, now living in St. Louis, changed his plea from guilty to not guilty on the same charges after Briggs asked him if he had even spent time in prison and took the punishment under advisement. Trial was set for later today.

At the time he was arrested, Travis told police he was with his wife when she wrote the checks and that he told her she was writing too many. She told him she was writing enough to take her to Chicago. He said he told her that if she was going to write that many, she might as well write enough to take them to California; so she did.

A $5.50 bogus check brought Eddie D. Blisslet of 229 Dixie a one-year probation. The condition of the probation is that he make full restitution.

The same punishment was handed out to Edgar and Evelyn Harter, P.O. Box 143 in Risco, who each pleaded guilty to cashing a bad check. Harter cashed one for $7 and his wife one for $25.

Trial for Butch Howard of Crowder was set for next Tuesday. He is charged with assaulting Johnny Ray Smith of 1803 Ann Drive in Sikeston.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Charles Jones, 207 Selma, after he failed to appear in court on charges of driving while intoxicated. His bond was ordered forfeited.

Warrants for failure to appear in court were all issued against Jerry Leon Lugar of Prosperity Street on charges of having no driver's license and L.W. Tubbs of Caruthersville on charges of no drivers license.

In other court action:: Jessie Lee Moore of St. Louis, speeding case dismissed on payment of costs; Jack E. Clemons, Taylor, Mich. improper registration, dismissed by judge on payment of costs; John Paul Crouthers, 102 Dudley , expired auto license, dismissed on payment of costs.

Carl Lee Johnson of Parma Route one, no driver's license had punishment taken under advisement; Clark Williams, 226 Dixie Street, no vehicle license, dismissed on payment of costs; Dennis Ray Agee, Box 406 Morehouse, speeding, fined $58 and costs; and Monroe Marshall, 204 Brown, permitting an unauthorized operator to drive his car, fined $20 and cost.

FAIR PLAY
IN CHILE

A year ago the Chilean government, headed by Marxist President Salvador Allende, used a new constitutional amendement to expropriate all major copper holdings. Anaconda, the largest copper company in Chile, had previously agreed to allow the government to purchase full ownership of the two chief mines. Under the agreements, Chile had taken control of the mines in 1969 on its promise to pay for them by 1982. But then President Allende came along with his socialist morality.

Chile's new president refused to pay for the property he took. In addition, he claimed that because of "excess profits," Anaconda actually owed Chile money. Anaconda protested, but it did little good, since the Special Copper Tribunal comprised two judges and three Allende appointees. A fair trial to Allende terms is not what Americans consider fair.

Some $458 million, one-fourth of Anaconda's assets, was invested in Chile. Part of that sum may be recovered from the U. S. government, but nearly all of it will be lost. The sad part about it, as far as the Chilean people are concerned, is that Anaconda and Kennecott Copper together used to pay 25 per cent of all the taxes in Chile. Now that Allende has taken over, the mines are paying no taxes and they are not making any profits. What does Allende say to that?" "If the poor have to tighten their bests one notch, the rich will tighten their four notches." Even at that, the rich will not go hungry. Just the poor. What kind of progress is that?

SLIDING DOWNHILL?

The recent "ITT scandals" brought the communications industry vividly into the public eye. One sometimes wonders what these scandals are all about. Someone is seized upon and pilloried for doing the things which "everybody does all the time." "Scandals" are necessary to the proper regulation of business. They are a means of communicating ideas between potentates of business. Scandals are annoying to those who are exposed to the limelight; but they result in no fundamental changes. The press always strives to create the impression that, as a result of 'scandalous" behavior being exposed, a greater rectitude will prevail in the future. This is one of the useful mythologies of our time.

The so-called "ITT scandals" awakened nostalgia among those familiar with the history of the telegraph business. On the eve of the first world war there erupted in England a delicious scandal which was called "The Marconi scandal." This affair involved Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor of the wireless. It also involved a certain Mr. Godfrey Isaacs, who shrewdly traded the shares of the Marconi Company and exercised mysterious influence over officials of His Majesty's Government in London. Isaacs had substantial connections in London City and could dig up capital as needed for expansion of the Marconi Company. Actually, the whole business was a penny-ante game, compared to the modern television networks. The revenues involved were derived chiefly from tolls on telegrams sent between ships and shore. Nevertheless, the Marconi affair marked an important turning - point in the affairs of the modern world.

The British writer G. K. Chesterton said, "It is the fashion to divide recent history into pre-war and post-war conditions. I believe it is almost essential to divide them into the pre-Marconi and post-Marconi days. It was during the agitations upon that affair that the ordinary English citizen lost his invincible ignorance; or, in ordinary language, his innocence ... and that it will be seen as one of the turning-points in the whole history of England and the world."

There are social scientists today who say that we are suffering from "communications pollution," and there is entirely too much communication. Nevertheless, the demand for communications facilities is growing by leaps and bounds. Telephones are reproducing faster than people. Computers carry on esoteric conversations with each other over long-distance lines. Teleprinters rattle in myriads of offices. Satellites relay messages around the world and will soon be introduced into our domestic communications system as well. Video pictures are carried to every hamlet by coaxial cables and CATV systems. Thus the imbecilities cooked up by the hack writers of TV scripts are made available to all.

In spite of a research explosion, in spite of great advances in communications technology, the overall efficiency of the world's communications systems has been sliding downhill for many years. You will not hear this from the public relations departments of the communications companies.

Why is communications efficiency sliding downhill?

According to James Van Buren Hearne, the reasons are complex. It is mainly a failure of motivation on the working level. The extremely sophisticated jobs, such as building a satellite, are well done; it is precisely the cruder, lower-level operating jobs which are badly done. Personnel at this level have been relegated to the status of serfs; they are not supposed to need any motivation; yet their failures often result in costly losses to business.

Equipment is often badly designed. It fails to hold up. Personnel are not interested in it. What is wrong?

In his book Man and Technicism written fifty years ago, Oswald Spengler said: "The organization of work, as it has existed for thousands of years, based on the idea of collective doing, and the consequent division of labor between leaders and led, heads and hands, is being disintegrated from below ... This mutiny, worldwide, threatens to put an end to the possibility of technical economic work."

Spengler also observed: "Every big entrepeneur has occasion to observe a falling-off in the intellectual qualities of his recruits. But the grand technical development of the nineteenth century had been possible only because the intellectual level was constantly becoming higher. Even a stationary condition, short of an actual falling -off, is dangerous and points to an ending, however numerous and however well schooled may be the hands ready for work."

Mr. Hearne states that every exectuvie in charge of technological establishments will see that this is true, if he faces the facts. Labor unions and schools, between them, have just about destroyed motivation at the working level. Engineering schools have produced a mentality akin to that of all the decadent arts of history; it is brilliant and complex; but it is also visibly falling off. If you need the technological "hot shot," the man who still possesses the technological spirit, where can you find him today?

'OPEN PRISONS'
IN MEXICO

The government of Mexico is engaged in a far-reaching program of prison reforms that should be of interest to penologists in this country.

The administration of President Luis Echeverria, who has long deplored "jails which are schools for crime," has instituted legislation to achieve minimum standards for the social readaptation of convicts.

Most dramatic and successful of the reform measures is the "open prison," in which prisoners serving two to 10 years are assigned to penal homes just prior to being granted their freedom. Here is where they serve their remaining time while being permitted and encouraged to hold jobs in outside society.

Goal of the open prison concept is to ease the ex-criminal back into the normal flow of society with minimum stigma and maximum confidence. It has been found that the self-esteem of holding a job and being accepted is invaluable in blunting impulses toward "easy money" and violence.

The prerelease program includes visits by selected groups of prisoners to public recreation centers, restaurants, museums and public events. Some prisoners are also allowed to spend weekends with their families.

Mexico has also recently established a Committee for Former Convicts, consisting of representatives from government and private agencies, including labor and industry, to provide moral and material aid to released prisoners.

The entire system is based on the belief that society has the obligation to receive former convicts, after they have paid their "debt," and then to assist them in pursuing a normal life.

SHRIVER, PICKED LATE SEEMS A-1

Not in recent years has the selection of a candidate for vice- president of the United States been so much in the forefront of the news. Seldom has such an unimportant matter — unimportant compared with the selection of a presidential candidate — taken on such gravity, calling into question as it did the integrity and judgement of the presidential candidate himself.

The departure of Thomas Eagleton because of the belated discovery of a skeleton in his closet, McGovern's public search for a successor, the turning away from the cup by the likes of Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie, endless speculation in the press — all these things combined to take our eyes off the central issues of the unusual McGovern candidacy even before his election campaign had begun.

But since the vice-presidential slot still occupies our attention, it needs to be stated that it is no reflection on Shriver that he was found at the end of a rather lengthy line. Judging him on his own merits and qualifications, he might very easily have been the first in line.

That is to say that, although a second or third or fourth choice, Sargent Shriver very definitely is not second or third or fourth rate.

A practicing attorney in Washington, Shriver is probably best known as the former director of the Peace Corps, having been named to that post by his brother- in-law, President John F. Kennedy. (He married Eunice Kennedy in 1953.)

Shriver remained in the Johnson administration following the assassination of Kennedy, first as head of the Office of Economic Opportunity to direct the "war on poverty," and then as ambassador to France. His name was among those considered as potential vice-presidential candidates by both Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964 and Hubert Humphrey in 1968.

It can be guessed that Shriver's connection with the Kennedy clan and his good and long- standing relations with Democratic party leaders played a part in his selection by George McGovern. If you can't have Teddy as your running mate, then Teddy's brother- in- law might do nicely.

How widely the supposed Kennedy magic casts its spell, however, and whether or not the voters associate Sargent Shriver with it, remains to be seen.

Sargent Shriver presents the interesting picture of an experienced politico who has never run for election, a seasoned public servant who has never been appointed to any office by the public — neither of which is a bad qualification.

He is handsome, accomplished, experienced, articulate, the right age, the right religion (balance, you know) and — if anybody really believes that in selecting a vice-president we should be ever mindful that we might actually be selecting a president — a definite enhancement to the McGovern campaign.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--President Nixon has rejected suggestions that he follow up his trips to Peking and Moscow with an overture to Havana.

He has no intention of seeking better relations with Fidel Castro as long as Cuba exports revolution to other Latin American countries and Russia is permitted to use Cuban territory for military purposes.

There have been conflicting signals from Havana on whether Castro is really interested in improving relations with the United States. Secret messages have been received in Washington suggesting he is eager to restore normal relations. These have been followed, almost invariably, by public attacks upon the United States.

Last fall, for example, Castro got word that the United States might soften its attitude toward Cuba. He hastily, if cautiously, flashed back the signal that he not only was receptive but that he might even be willing to use "traditional democratic procedures" to spread "socialist power" in Latin America.

Castro's message was repeated in the right places at the United Nations by his diplomatic-intelligence representative, Teofilo Acosta Rodreguez. The word quickly reached the Central Intelligence Agency, which sent a secret report, dated December 8, to the White House.

SECRET MESSAGE

"In the latter part of November 1971," reported the CIA, "Teofilo Acosta Rodriguez. . . said that Fidel Castro, Cuban Prime Minister, had received a report before his departure for Chile that U.S. officials were considering a reversal of the U.S. hard-line policy toward Cuba.

"As a result, Havana had requested Cubans at the UN to check the report. Meanwhile, Castro had decided to mellow his tone on the United States during his Chilean trip.

"Acosta commented that there is some support in Cuba for the view that Cuba could benefit from improved cultural ties with the U.S., or some realistic adjustment of differences. . . .

"Later in the conversation, Acosta said that Cuban leaders are doing some rethinking on basic revolutionary tactics. There is some theoretical opposition to the 'Che Guevara' theory, which favors supporting native insurrectionists and anarchists in poor countries.

"Instead, support is growing for the Chilean formula, which maintains that traditional democratic procedures are the best means of socialist power in weak, backward countries."

SIGNALS CROSSED

As it happened, Castro got his signals crossed. He was wrong about the possibility that the United States might soften its line toward Havana. The blunt truth is that President Nixon isn't the least interested in an accommodation with Castro.

Those who watch Havana for the United States are convinced that Castro would jump at a genuine chance to normalize Cuban-American relations. He would like nothing better, they say, than to sit down as an equal with Nixon.

Castro's slashing attacks upon the United States, they believe, are strictly defensive. He tries to appear intractable toward the United States, they say, because he is convinced the United States is intractable toward him. He is particularly harsh upon Nixon, whose name is spelled in the party newspaper with a swastaka in place of the "x."

These experts also believe Nixon has been influenced by his Cuban friends, such as BebeReboz, to maintain a hard line toward Castro. The anti-Castro Cubans, who now live and vote in this country, are almost solidly behind Nixon.

NIXON'S CUBAN POLICY

A White House aide assured us, however, that Nixon doesn't listen to Rebozo on Cuban policy. The aide said the President based his hard line on three factors:

1. U.S. policy toward Cuba isn't unilateral but multilateral. The Organization of American States voted in 1962 to break diplomatic and commercial ties with Cuba. Until this is reversed, the United States will be bound by the OAS vote.

2. Russia uses Cuba as a base to refuel its submarines and for other military purposes. The argument has been made that this violates the Monroe Doctrine. Moscow also gives Cuba an estimated $250 million a year in military aid, not to mention twice that amount in economic aid .

3. Cuba continues to provide arms, money and guerrilla training to revolutionary movements throughout Latin America. There is evidence that Russia supports Cuba in spreading subversion.

In another secret report to the White House, for example, the CIA quoted a confidential source as revealing "That the Soviets asked Fidel Castro to try to regain control of Latin American revolutionary movements and to develop closer relations with Latin American Communist parties and their leaders. . ."

The source quoted a Cuban intelligence officer, Enrique Benavides, as saying "that Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin had promised to provide financial aid to Castro's efforts to regain control over these movements. ..

"Benavides said that through Cuba the Soviets will support armed revolution or political struggle, whichever was deemed appropriate in given countries throughout Latin America. According to Benavides, the Soviets have told Cuba they will 'pay for everything' in helping all revolutionary groups. even Catholic radical groups.

"Benavides strongly emphasized that Cuba has not changed its line but still favors armed revolution everywhere in Latin America."

CONTROLLING OUR NATION'S CHILDREN

The Senate has passed and sent to the House the "Comprehensive Headstart, Child Development, and Family Services Act of 1972." According to Senator William Brock of Tennessee, "This bill would motivate the dissolution of family care, family sharing, family concern."

The bill describes itself as setting up a "partnership of parents, states and local government and the federal government" in controlling the upbringing of children. Parental rights are thus made to depend on the interests and activities of the various levels of government. Instead of government protecting the rights of families, as was traditional in our country, its bureaucrats would now be empowered tto step into the home and take over the care of children.

Centralized control of the programs authorized in this legislation would be insured by a clause stating that the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare "shall...promulgate a common set of program standards which shall be applicable to all programs."

In testimony before Congressional committees, supporters of this legislation have made no secret of their ultimate aims. Dr. Reginald Lourie told one committee that there is "serious thinking among some of the future-oriented child development research people that maybe we can't trust the family along to prepare young children for this new kind of world that is emerging."

Senator Jacob Javits, a principal sponsor of the bill, has said: "We have recognized that the child is a care of the state."

But the child does not belong to the state. He belongs with his parents and family. Every citizen who believes this should urge his Congressman to defeat this dangerous legislation. HLH

Cracking the Banks:
Big Labor Units Begin Shifting
Big Money to First Unionized Big Bank
By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON---It is the dream of a lanky professorial-looking labor leader to unionize tens of thousands of banks throughout the land, organize their million employees and lead the nation's most massive white-collar union. In this dream of Office and Professional Employees International Union (OPEIU) president Howard Coughlin, a flow of multi-colored checks, totaling billions of dollars, pour in futuristic cinematic fashion from union treasuries into the unionized banks--money drawn from non-union depositories.

But Coughlin and his colleagues are realists. They know that American labor now can influence directly and indirectly, in its central treasuries and in pension and welfare funds, almost $40 billion. But to use this influence as a battering ram would first require unionizing at least several big banks which Coughlin could recommend to fellow union chiefs.

That would be the big money leagues. Now Coughlin's union has cracked the dike. It has fully unionized this District's third largest bank-- the National Bank of Washington which has signed up with the international's Local 2.

Next move was to get word out to all AFL-CIO affiliates. Tell them to move some of their millions into the big bank with a union label. This happened on Aug. 8. The labor federation's second-in-command, AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, dispatched an unpublicized communique to leaders of its 13.6 million members. After reporting to them that the National Bank of Washington has been unionized, Kirkland wrote:

"I would accordingly recommend that favorable consideration be given by affiliates to the services of the National Bank of Washington in connection with their banking needs. Fraternally yours."

Then some money has to start seeping through the cracked dikes which have kept unions out of the American banking field for so long.

Significantly, money began trickling in from none other than the AfL-CIO's Union Label and Service Trades Dept. On Aug. 11, it mailed a $10,000 check to True Davis, National Bank of Washington president. The check was for a certificate of deposit for two years. The letter concluded that "we are pleased to further note that these funds are being deposited in your bank as a result of granting union recognition to the office and Professional Employees International Union to represent bank employees. OPEIU is one of 91 affiliates of our Department. Sincerely, Edward P. Murphy, Secretary-Treasurer."

Thus the huge labor federation's Union Label Department, which generally worries about such matters as the label on the inside of your coat or dress, put the union label on the union dollar.Other departments feel compelled to move in some money.

A few days later, OPEIU Local 2 president John Cahill dispatched a letter to 34 international unions headquartered here. And to five AFL-CIO departments.

Among these unions is the powerful and militant International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. It makes a fetish of the "union label" on its work. And the five AFL-CIO subdivisions include such units as the gung-ho Industrial Union Dept.; the dynamic Maritime Trades Dept. led by the Seafarers' Paul Hall; the Building and Construction Trades Dept., which now so vigorously and with stentorian oratory is battling the spread of non-union work. Obviously when these divisions are approached personally by Cahill and by the OPEIU's director of organization, 6-foot-3, 205-pound, 49-year-old Art Lewandowski, they will find it embarrassing not to move some of their funds into a "union" bank.

The implications here are obvious. The unions, which control or can influence the deposits of billions of dollars over a two -or three-year period, can no longer say the Office and Professional Employees have only small banks on their list of 14 with a union label. The National Bank of Washington is owned by the United Mine Workers, which has some $80 million on deposit there as of a July 1 count.

Note the Cahill letter--note, too, that Brother Cahill hasn't hesitated to picket other unions in Washington when their office staffs decided to strike for more money.

"Dear Sir and Brother: You were recently apprised by the AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland of this local union's success in being selected as the collective bargaining representative... of the National Bank of Washington in this city." Cahill wrote. "Traditionally one of the strongest instruments of self-protection available to the labor movement has been the patronage by its members of union-made goods and services. The National Bank of Washington is the largest bank yet organized in the U.S."

Then Cahill hits home with "your support in showing that union money follows a union label will bring additional employees in other banks the benefits of collective bargaining."

Thus, as the Chinese say, the first small step begins the longest journey. Coughlin and his colleagues, in effect, are saying to the rest of the labor movement, put your millions even billions, where your mouth is. America is one of the few lands across the world where bank employees are not unionized. And money talks.

Search For Shoeless Bandit

The culprit, taken into custody Monday as a burglary suspect, jumped out of a police van and ran into a wooded lot. Officers have found his shoes but nothing else.

Mixed Drink License Granted At Charleston

CHARLESTON - The first license to serve mixed drinks was tentatively granted to Storming Bull Restaurant.

The Liquor Control Committee of the City Council granted the license, subject to the restaruant's meeting state and county requirements.

Members of the committee are Dr. Lowell Nicholas, Dr. T. P. Fenton and Sam Story.

Two other applications for license are pending. These include one from Budweiser Tavern, operated by Wilbur (Bo) French, and 33 Club, operated by Verlon Uthoff.

City Manager Richard Martin said he understands the liquor committee plans to consider the two remaining applications at the Sept. 12 meeting of the City Council.

Charleston voters approved the sale of mixed drinks at a special election on June 9. Prior to that election, the council said no more than three liquor licenses would be issued, and said they would be restricted to establishments capable of seating 100 persons and serving three meals a day at least six days per week.

The actual ordinance adoped after the elction permits issuance of a license prior to the meeting of these requirements, and gives the license holder up to six months to bring seating capacity and food service up to the required standard.

Fire Damages Madrid Church

NEW MADRID — A fire was reported at 6 a.m. today at Mt. Olive Missionary Baptist Church on Missouri Street by James Jamerson, a contractor who is building an addition onto the rear of the church.

Jamerson reported he noticed the fire soon after opening the church and turning on some lights.

Firemen were able to confine the blaze to the altar area where it originated. Estimated damage is unknown.

Rotary District Youth Exchange Officer Named

CARUTHERSVILLE- District Rotary Club Governor Horace Dunagan has announced the appointment of a District 609 youth exchange officer for the 39 Rotary clubs in the southeast quadrant of Missouri.

Dunagan explained that the youth exchange officer will co-ordinate one - year exchange agreements between clubs in Southeast Missouri and other Rotary clubs around the world. Prior to the creation of the new post, clubs in this area seeking exchange agreements for high school age youths initiated the relationships on an individual club basis.

Dunagan said he learned of the district youth exchange officer plan used in other districts while attending the Rotary International Assembly at Lake Placid, N.Y., last May. He said he hopes the new procedure would encourage more Rotary clubs to participate in the international program which inludes 15,376 clubs and approximatley 723,000 members in 149 countries.

Named to the new post is Lee G. Cochran, a member of the Jackson Rotary Club, a former district governor of Rotary and a member of the organization since 1955.

Young men and women in Southeast Missouri who are interested in the Rotary exchange program may contact an officer or member of their local Rotary Club for details on the international program.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bone

Bone-Washburn

First Baptist Church was the setting Aug. 26 at 11 a.m. for the wedding of Nancy Elizabeth Washburn and Michael James Bone. The Rev. Joe Williams performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ada Crawford, 823 Ruth St., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bone of Bertrand Route One.

Mrs. Peggy Sadler was soloist and Mrs. Shirley McCellum was organist.

Her veil of illusion was attached to a daisy-trimmed bonnet crown. She carried a bouquet of white daisies tipped with blue, a red rose and baby's breath with streamers of blue and white.

Flower girl Michelle Bone, sister of the groom, wore a gown of blue and white dotted swiss and matching headdress.

Ann Landers

Sibling Rivalry Cooled By Mother's Attention

Dear Ann Landers: A young neighbor of mine has six children under 12 years of age. I have always admired this young woman and marveled at the way she handles her growing family. The children get along beautifully. They are cooperative and mannerly. Yesterday, I learned her secret.

She told me she makes it a point to spend at least ten minutes each day engaged in a personal conversation with each child. This makes them feel "visible." It adds to their self -esteem and reduces the sibling rivalry that most children grow up with. A child doesn't resent a brother or sister who gets parental attention if he gets his share.

Will you please find room in your column for this little nugget, Ann? ---Lady Across the Road

Dear Lady: Here's the nugget and my thanks for allowing me to put it in a showcase for other mothers to see. If every mother who reads your letter will make a special effort to act on your suggestion today, I'll bet they'll be astonished at the results.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the girl who signed herself "Chickadee" and it's after midnight, but I won't sleep tonight unless I write her this letter. She said her fiance has a hot tempter is very suspicious and constantly checking and accusing her of everything under the sun. She closed by saying she can't live with or without him.

I pray that Chickadee will take your advice and ditch the bum. If she has a brain in her head she'll run for her life --in the opposite direction. It may hurt for awhile but better to have a few weeks (or months) of agony than a lifetime of it. Hot tempers don't fade. They get hotter. I know what I am talking about, because I married the same kind of lunatic and I have the scars to prove it.

So many girls think they are going to make a man over after they are married but it never works out that way. I realize this is a pretty tired tune I'm singing, but some people have to hear something 40 times before it soaks in. So, I say to all you Chickadees out there, call me a bore, but do yourselves a favor and listen. ---Learned the Hard Way

Dear Learned: Here's your letter and if just one person gets the message it was worth staying up an extra 30 minutes to write.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm probably old enough to be your mother but I am coming to you for advice because you seem to have good judgment.

I am a widow who recently met another nice woman without a husband. We have gone to the movies together and have had dinner in one another's homes and in restaurants.

The problem is her table manners. They are atrocious. This otherwise genteel woman uses her thumb as a pusher, east stewed chicken with her hands, drips gravy all over the tablecloth, and frequently uses her forefinger to dislodge food from her dentures. At this point I become nauseated. The last time we dined out I simply did not look at her.

Should I drop her or tell her how I feel? Or is there a chance that I am excessively critical and intolerant? ---New Orleans

Dear N. O.: Tell her. If she resents it and discontinues the friendship you have lost nothing. If you don't tell her, you will soon become so annoyed by her grossness that you will eventually attack her on some other grounds and the friendship will be over.

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs" separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a LONG, self -addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346 Chicago, Ill. 60654

NEW YORK (AP) -- A school teacher has sued the Metropolitan Transportation Authority for having her arrested and jailed the day she lacked part of a $1.45 commuter train fare.

Dolores Montez filed the suit Friday in state Supreme Court, seeking $100,000 damages for the "humiliating experience" last Feb. 2 in Babylon, N.Y.

Riding the MTA's Long Island Rail Road, the suit said, she found only $1.05 in cash and a 35-cent subway token in her purse. The conductor refused them, locked her on the train at Babylon, the last stop, and called Suffolk County Police, who arrested her on a theft of service charge.

Unable to furnish the $25 bail, Mrs. Montez said, she was jailed and forced to sleep on a board.

Dogs Inherit $14 Million

AP- Eighty-one dogs have inherited about $14 million from the estate of their late spinster mistress.

The will of Eleanor E. Ritchey, heir to the Quaker State Refining Corp., was finally settled Monday in Broward County Court following years of litigation.

Miss Ritchey, who died Oct. 14, 1968, at the age of 58, left her then $4.5- million estate to 150 stray dogs.

Her will was contested by a handful of relatives not mentioned.

Meantime, 69 of the dogs have died but assets of the gross estate, mostly invested in Quaker State stock, have grown to about $18 million. Miss Ritchey was the granddaughter of Philip Bayer, who founded Quaker State.

The dogs that Miss Ritchey had cared for, including everything from mutts to pedigrees, now live in an antiseptic, modern clinic on a 180-acre ranch near Deerfield Beach, Fla. Approximately $17,000 is spent each year on the dogs' food and housing, while another $12,000 per year pays for their weekly medical checkups and treatment of illnesses.

Tattooed to prove their membership in the original 150, the animals are separated by sex so as to prevent propagation. Accidental offspring would be eligible to receive benefits from the estate.

Attorneys were unable to find actuarial tables for dogs, but it was decided the bequest to the animals would stay in effect until the last dog is dead or for a maximum of 20 years.

After all the canine heirs succumb, the estate is to be passed on to the Auburn Research Foundation, at Auburn University in Alabama, for study of diseases of small animals.

Relatives contended Miss Ritchey "lost touch with reality" because of a lawsuit by her neighbors that forced her to move the dogs in 1967 to their present home. The neighbors had complained of excessive barking and yelping.

Woman Of The Year Speaker Announced At Charleston

CHARLESTON- L. Goebel Patton, superintendent of schools at West Frankfort, ill., will be the speaker Oct. 12 when the Business and Professional Women's Club presents its seventh annual Woman of the Year Banquet at the Charleston Armory.

Patton, a leading spokesman for education, appears at educational, school board, PTA, religious, civic and fraternal meetings and commencements throughout Illinois and surrounding states.

From 1960 to 1970 Patton was director of public relations for the Illinois Education Association, returning to West Frankfort as superintendent of schools in 1970. He has a 30-year record of service in the West Frankfort school system.

As a member of the boards of directors of the Boy Scout Council, American Cancer Society, and SIU Foundation, Patton has received numerous awards for outstanding service; including an award from the Boy Scouts of America, the Outstanding Citizens Award for servie to the American Cancer Society, and the Southern Illinois University Alumni Service Award.

Applications Being Accepted For One Day Cheerleading Clinic

MARTIN, Tenn. — September -- Applications are being accepted for a one-day professionally conducted cheerleader clinic sponsored by the University of Tennessee at Martin department of physical education.

Planned for high school, junior high and college cheerleaders in Tennessee and surrounding states, the clinic is set for the UMT campus Sept. 25. Registration will begin at 8:15 a.m. and the program will end at 3 p.m.

Miss Bettye Giles, clinic director, says this annual clinic has proved to be of extreme value to all participants. The sportsmanship and crowd control responsibilities of school cheerleaders is often a neglected area of training. The UTM clinic will set standards for the important part of school spirit as well as instructions for new cheers, motions and pep rally ideas, she said.

Gene Cason of the National Cheerleader Association will provide the instruction for the one-day clinic and the UTM cheerleaders will host the event.

Applications for the clinic have already been mailed and should be returned as soon as possible.

Mother And Son United After Being Separated 28 Years Ago During War

Crying "Mutti, Mutti" - the German affectionate term for mother - Manfred Berth smothered Mrs. Vera List with kisses.

Mrs. List, who hadn't seen her son in 27 years, said, "He can't believe the welcome he got here."

About 15- well-wishers were on hand at Orlando airport as Berth, his wife and 3-year-old daughter arrived from Berlin.

Twenty-seven years ago in war - ravaged Berlin, 18-year-old Vera Berth was fleeing across a bombed- out field, clinging to her one-year-old son, when she was stopped by a Russian patrol.

She was told her son was taken to a similar camp for children.

At the German surrender, Vera was released — but she was told her only child had died when an epidemic swept the children's compound.

After working in the British and American zones of Berline, Vera emigrated 10 years later to Ohio. There she met and married Air Force Sgt. Everett List, becoming stepmother to his two children, Jimmy, now 16, and Linda, 14.

List was later transferred to McCoy Air Force Base in Orlando.

In May 1971, Mrs. List received a letter written in German which said simply: "Dearest mother, I guess you are surprised to hear from me. I am your son Manfred, born Aug. 23, 1944..."

Spitz In Gold Rush

MUNICH (AP) — It was a gloriously climactic day for America's aquakids, what with Mark Spitz' magnificent seventh and triumphs by Mike Burton, Karen Moe and Melissa Belote—but the lustre of all that U.S. gold was tarnished by the spectre of doping charges.

Rick DeMont, an asthmatic 16-year-old from San Rafael, Calif., who had already won the 400-meter freestyle last Friday, was ready to go for gold and improve his own world record in the gruelling 1,500 meters.

But only minutes before the race, DeMont was "medically ejected" for having taken Ephedrine, an asthma medication. It's presence was discovered in a routine urine test after his victory in the 400.

"I can't say anything," DeMont said, fighting—and failing—to hold back the tears. "I put it all on my forms. I did everything anybody asked. I have nothing else to say."

With DeMont out of the race, Burton of Sacramento, Calif., streaked to victory, shattering DeMont's record with a clocking of 15:52.58.

"I'm sorry Rick wasn't in the race," said Burton, who finished nearly six seconds ahead of Australian Graham Windeatt, "and I'm not saying I would have beaten him ...."

The ejection from the 1,500 was not, however, the major letdown faced by DeMont. He faced possible loss of his 400 gold as well. The International Olympic Committee's Executive Committee and U.S. swimming officials were meeting overnight and a decision was expected early today.

The German word for the spectacular water hole here is "Schwimmhalle," but it could just as properly be called the "Spitzhalle."

The 22-year-old torpedo from Carmichael, Calif., an Indiana University dental student, owns it outright. Seven times he got into the water and seven times he came out a world recordbreaking winner.

The finale on Monday was in the 400-meter medley relay. Ahead of him, backstroker Mike Stamm of San Diego and breaststroke specialist Tom Bruce of Sunnyvale, Calif., gave the American team the barest of leads over East Germany.

Then Spitz hit the water for his 100-meter butterfly leg—and by the time freestyle anchorman Jerry Heidenreich took over for the final 100, the U.S. kids had an unbeatable 12 or 13-foot lead. The quartest was clocked in a world-record 3:48.16, beating out silver-winning East Germany and thirdplace Canada.

Miss Moe, of Santa Clara, Calif., led a 1-2-3 U.S. sweep in the women's 200-meter butterfly with her world-record mark of 2:15.57. Lynn Colella of Seattle took the silver and Ellie Daniel of Elkins Park, Pa., the bronze.

Miss Belote, of Springfield, Va., who earlier had won the 100-meter backstroke, became a double gold medalist with her 200 backstroke triumph in 2:19.19, also a world record. Susie Atwood of Long Beach, Calif., was second ahead of Donna Marie Gurr of Canada.

If all this "U.S. swimmers swept ... " and "new world record ... " business seems repetitive, it is. The U.S. men, for example, grabbed 10 of the 18 golds available and took eight silvers and eight bronzes. And the women won eight of 14 golds, plus five silvers and four bronzes. In all, world marks were set in 23 of 29 events and no record from Mexico City's 1968 Games—not one—was left intact.

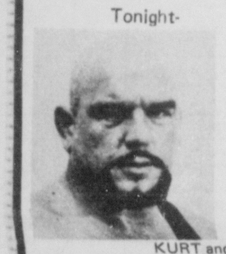

U.S. men should be so fortunate on the track. They got aced out again Monday in a race which, for decades, virtually had a "made in America" stamp on it.

Valery Borzov, who earlier won the 100-meter dash, became the first non-American to sweep the sprints as he won the 200 meters in 19.99 seconds, beating Larry Black of Miami to the wire by a fifth of a second.

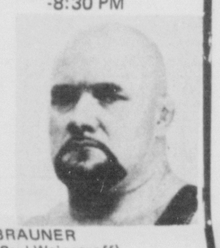

Despite being second best, Black was not impressed by Borzov. "To me he's a clown," he said. "He's always running and looking around to see who's near him. If he can run and win that way, all right. But the day's going to come when he's going to look around too much."

Northern Outlook

It looks like 1972 might be the year of the Big Orange Machine in SeMo Conference Northern Division football races. The only coach who voiced the opinion that Cape Girardeau Central wasn't the odds-on choice to win a fourth consecutive title was Bengal Coach Gary Lynch, and it appeared he was being "a bit modest."

Here is the way it looks now at the various schools:

CAPE GIRARDEAU

CCHS is loaded. So, what else is new? Sixty-seven prospects remain at Central, by far the largest squad in the conference, and many are returning lettermen.

Coach Lynch said this year's squad will be a "physical" team. Backs Bruce Fee and Paul Schermann beef up the running attack, and Don Zimmer promises to be one of the top passers in th district. Several talented ends dot the roster and, as usual, the team is loaded with quality lineman, a rare commodity in some parts.

The Central game plan for this year is one of variety. "We will throw 10 to 15 times a game," Lynch said.

Kevin Mitchell, 225-pound tackle is a standout returnee. Willie Colon, a two-year starter, returns to beef up the secondary.

In summary, Central appears to have an improved offense to go with the traditionally tough defense. The Tigers must be rated solid favorites for another first place finish.

CHARLESTON

1972 appears to be a rebuilding year for new Coach Joe Black at Charleston. The Blue Jays lost heavily through graduation. Black got a shock on the first day of practice when only 17 players showed up. Others have since joined the team, but the total of players - now 28 - still leaves a serious depth problem.

"We are trying to set up a tough program," Black said. "We want to develop tough football players."

Not only do the Jays lack depth, but size as well. The offensive line averages near the 160-pound mark, and most lineman are inexperienced.

The backs are quick and hard-hitting, so the running attack will depend on the development of the linemen.

The defense, as well, is inexperienced, but the players have been enthusiastic.

A new coach, Black has a tough season ahead, but he is optimistic, expressing confidence of a creditable showing by his young squad. His main problem appears to be the fact that Charleston is having a "down" season at the same time nearly every other team in the conference is up.

JACKSON

Injuries have been light at Jackson, and 58 boys remain as the Black and Red point to the initial encounter Friday with always tough Dexter.

When they face the Bearcats, the Indians will place an offensive line on the field with an average of 190 pounds per man, good size for high school, and the defense is even bigger.

Jackson's best running back returning appears to be 180-pound fullback Lawrence Swann. Other quality performers returning for Webber are Ted and Fred Leimer and Mike Litzenfelder, all checking in around the 160 mark.

But, despite all that running talent available, any team that sets up to stop the rush is in for a rude awakening. Junior quarterback Mark Jones returns after running the team part-time last year. Webber says Jones has "one of the best arms around." The offense will be almost split, half and half, between running and passing.

Jackson with the veteran team, should rate solid title consideration, which the Indians have never won. With a bit of luck, history could be made in 1972.

KENNETT

"We're well satisfied." That's the word from Kennett, where the Indians return 11 of 22 starters including seven of 11 on offense. The entire backfield returns intact, led by 175-pound quarterback David Tippen, his third year as a starter for Coach Bill Arment. Others with him in the backfield are Bill Wilkey, a 180-pound fullback. Also, Mike Kranz and Robert Pulliam are running backs.

Kennett has good size. The offensive line will average around 175 and the defense slightly larger. Many players return with playing time from last year. The defense, despite losing seven starters will be solid and capable.

The team does not have great speed, but good runners are not always the fastest ones. The runners playing for Kennett are all solid ballplayers, several starting for their third year, an added cohesiveness that can't hurt the Indians.

Other standouts returning for Arment this year are Ward Billing, Tony Miller and ricky Fort, all linemen. Billings weighs 175 pounds and is a guard. Miller, Kennett's center, checks in at 185, and Fort, a tackle, weighs 185 pounds.

Kennett opens the season Friday with Malden. Malden will see very few traces of the Kennett Indians who were infamous for the fantastic 27-game losing streak a few years ago. Coach Arment looks for a tough fight from Malden. "Ty are always in fine shape," Arment said. "They've got a good coach and he teaches them well."

Kennett would have to be a solid choice for second this year. The Indians have a good shot at the title and seem to be solid up and down the lineup.

PERRYVILLE

The Perryville Pirates, as always, are small. This hasn't hurt them in the past and shouldn't figure to hurt them this year. They are inexperienced this year and that could hurt. Only three starters are coming back off of last year's 8-1-1- club. Among the missing is All-Stater Mark Gotto.

Perryville, most likely, will feature good backs this year. They are lacking on speed, but they had little speed last year and everyone in the backfield amassed more than 700 yards, individually.

Two players returning from last year's second-place squad are depended on heavily. The two are David Meyr, a 190-pound tackle, and Steve Meier, a 170-pound guard.

The offense, as in the past, will run, run, run. It's the old "three yards and a cloud of dust" theory, but, at Perryville, it has been very effective over the years.

Perryville is, in a way, like Bob Gibson. Every year people try to write the Pirates off, saying they lack size or speed, or something. But, the Pirates always come back and win. This year could be no exception. They don't seem to have enough quality ballplayers around to win, but don't count Coach Terry Smith's troops out of the picture yet.

POPLAR BLUFF

Another of the three new coaches in the conference is Tom Telle at Poplar Bluff. But wait, he's not new. No, Telle has been at Bluff before. He had a one-year leave of absence as he moved northward to coach Maplewood - St. Louis for a season after serving as a Mule assistant coach and as head man at Dexter.

Well, he's back and seems to be very optimistic. "We're young," Telle said, "and we'll make mistakes. Twenty-one of the 38 players on the roster are sophomores. But the youngsters are eager and responsive and are "working very well together," according to the coach.

The Bluff crew has average size. The offensive line averages 175 pounds per man, and, defensively, the Mules are about the same.

There is not exceptional speed, but, in senior backs Bennie Holt and Tuttie Hayes, there is good quickness. Because of this, the Mules will run predominantly, using the pass only if they have to. Another running back that MUST be mentioned is J. B. Hayes. Starting for the third year, the 205-pounder is the largest man for the Purple and White. Because of his size and strength, Hayes is a powerful runner and possibly the best in the district.

The pressure is on untried John Casey, the new quarterback, as PB attempts to catch the Tigers of Cape and win the conference for the first time since 1966.

SIKESTON

"We are ready."First year man Pete Cirrintano voiced his optimism about his squad. Fourth-three remain of the original 69 after three weeks of practice. Depth is a serious problem because of the desertion of 16 players who would have certainly logged some playing time. "They will regret their decision," the new mentor said.

The Bulldogs' first game Friday will see them travel to Farmington to play the Knights. Farmington will field a veteran team, with 26 seniors. By comparison, Sikeston will produce 8 to 10 upperclassmen from a school twice as big as Farmington. Last year Farmington advanced to the state playoffs and lost in the finals 29-22 to Fulton.

The Bulldogs this year will have the most speed of any Sikeston team since 1968. Curtis Bean, a track star for Sikeston last spring,

Big 8 Powers Lead AP Poll

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — "Your ... damn polls don't mean a thing until the season's over. Quote me exactly on that!"

That is Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney's message to poll takers and reporters. Especially those who call him at night.

Devaney was asked his reaction to the first Associated Press preseason poll, released over the weekend, in which his Cornhuskers, who are shooting for an unprecedented third straight national title, are ranked No. 1.

Devaney was reached by phone at his home shortly after 10:30 (CDT) Monday night. Efforts to reach him earlier in the evening proved futile. Devaney told a reporter he "picked a helluva time to call," and then gave his opinion of polls in general.

The latest Devaney reaction to the way his team is shaping up in general came earlier Monday, after he had finished evaluating films of a preseason scrimmage held Saturday.

"I think we over-praised our defense," he said. "They weren't as good as we had thought."

NU's top offensive and defensive units trounched a scout team, which was running UCLA formations, 39-7. As Devaney saw it, "for the amount of experience and the time they've been together, they (the scout team) did too good a job of running plays against our defense."

Devaney classified the mistakes as mental as well as physical, and said veterans were as guilty as the rookies.

The Husker coach also said he had not picked his starting quarterback. Candidates for the post include David Humm, Steve Runty and Terry Luck.

The Huskers face their first test against another currently ranked team when they meet No. 2 Colorado Nov. 4 Nebraska faces No. 6 Oklahoma on Thanksgiving Day.

The initial poll saw Ohio State No. 3 followed by Arkansas and Penn State.

Alabama, soundly defeated by Devaney's proteges in last year's Orange Bowl game, was ranked seventh, followed by Southern Cal, Washington, Michigan, Louisiana State, Arizona State, Notre Dame, Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Purdue, Florida State, and Stanford.

The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses, last season's records and total points. Points based on 20-18-1614-12-10-9-8, etc.

Expos Close In On Birds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Montreal got the best of veteran hurler Bob Gibson 1-0 Monday but the St. Louis Cardinals rebounded in the second game of a Labor Day doubleheader to defeat the Expos 8-7.

The split kept St. Louis in fourth place in the National League East, just two game ahead of the Expos.

A crowd of 12,427 was on hand for the holiday twin bill. They watched Cardinals Jim Bibby take the second game victory for his first win in the major leagues. Bibby is up from the American Association Cardinal farm club at Tulsa, Okla., whre he won 13 and lost ine this season.

Montreal collected three firstinning runs off Bibby. "After that, I got a few curve balls over and did better," he said.

Expos Carl Morton recorded his first shutout in two years in downing St. Louis 1-0 during the opener. Morton's record went to 6-12. Gibson, still looking forward to another 20-victory season, stands at 15-9.

"I tried to mtch Gibson zero for zero," Morton commented. "That's how I approached the game. Once we got the run, I relaxed a little. But I haven't pitched well enough to stay around ver long."

Montreal's winning tally came off Gibson in the fifth in a base on balls, a ground-out and the run-scoring single by Bob Bailey.

"If we play well and finished ahead of the Cardinals it will be gratifying," Expos skipper Gene Mauch said. "But if they just finish behind us, it's nothing."

St. Louis manager Red Schoendienst plans to use rookie infielders Mike Tyson and Ken Reitz in tonight's final contest with the Expos. After that the Cardinals leave town for a nine-day trip that begins in Philadelphia, Wednesday.

will line up at one setback spot. Curtis, a 165-pound senior, was a starter last year until a broken ankle shelved him in the Perryville game. "Bean can run the 40-year dash consistently in 4.6 seconds," Coach Cirrintano said. "Pro football cornerbacks must only beat 4.7."

The other back is also a returning starter, 175-pound fullback Jessie Smith. Smith was forced into the starting lineup by injuries as a sophomore last year, then he was forced out by an injury. He seems to have completely recovered from last season's shoulder separation and should provide Cirrintano with a strong and exciting power runner for the next two years.

The entire team seems to revolve around quarterback Bill Colwick right now. The 185-pound senior was a devastating passer last year, throwing for over 130 yards per game. This year he must balance the attack and run the ball more himself. In addition to capable backs, he has standout receiver Glenn Guttenfelder to throw to, as well as Rick Eisenbach, who has been a very pleasant surprise to Cirrintano.

The team is well disciplined, according to the coach, and seems to be working together very well. The big probelm is the mistakes the inexperienced players keep making. If the Dogs can eliminate the mistakes, they could very well sneak in and win the title for the first time since 1968. Right now they rate as the darkhorse choice, but were very definitely mentioned by all of the coaches.

Study Area Restricted

ROLLA -- One of Missouri's few streams with a spawning population of rainbow trout has been closed to fishing by the Conservation Commission.

Wilkins Spring and Spring Branch and part of Mill Creek in the Clark National Forest will be closed to fishing and the taking of any other wildlife for five years to give researchers a chance to study the almost unique natural spawning trout population. About one mile of stream is to be closed.

The closure had been requested by the U. S. Forest Service, which administers the Clark Forest and by Spence Turner, trout biologist with the Department of Conservation.

The closed area will be posted for the benefit of fishermen in the rest of the stream.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Defending titlist Torsten Johansson of Sweden has defeated Homer Richards of Charlottesville, Va., 6-2, 6-1 to move into the semifinals of the United States Senior Grass Court Tennis Championship.

Memphis Legion Favorites

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Pitching-rich Memphis goes after its second American Legion World Series title in the last five years tonight.

Two games scheduled for Monday were postponed by rain. Today's forecast is for less than 20 per cent chance of rain, with partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures.

Memphis, which won the Legion series in 1968, carries a 499 record into tonight's game. The Memphis squad's opponent will be the winner of an earlier game today between El Cerrito, Calif., 40-9 and Ballwin, Mo., 42-8.

Memphis has received three glittering pitching performances in the series and is the only unbeaten squad in the double-elimination tourney.

Both El Cerrito and Ballwin have lost one, meaning either will have to beat Memphis two straight to win the title.

If Memphis loses tonight, the final series game will be Wednesday night.

Chicago Team Is Slo-Pitch Champs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Chicago Carluccis won their sixth national championship and their fourth straight game Monday night with a 14-5 drubbing of the Chicago American Rivets in the American Softball Association's 16-Inch slow pitch national tournament here.

The Carluccis, a team founded in 1942, collected 16 hits including shortstop Al Ceck's two-run homer in the first. Ed Zoina, 43, was the winning pitcher allowing nine hits. Ceck led the team with six RBI's.

It was the second loss handed to the Rivets by the Carluccis Monday. The Rivets lost 5-1 to the Carluccis in the finals of the winners' bracket competition, and the Rivets earned a second shot when they defeated a team from Champaign, Ill., 10-4 in the last game of the losers' bracket.

The Rivets, who ended the tourney with a 4 and 2 record, would have had to beat Carluccis twice Monday night, while Carluccis 6 and 0 in tourney play, needed only one victory over the Rivets.

Mechanic Building Home On Kansas River Island

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Warren Freeman always wanted a home on the river and now he's building a one-room cabin on an island in the Kaw River.

"It's not that I don' like people," the 50-year-old mechanic said. "It's just that I like it here. I've always loved the river.

"No one was using the island and I'm not going to use it to make money. I just want a peaceful place to live."

The island is downstream from the west Kansas Avenue bridge in Kansas City, Kan. it is heavily wooded. Freeman commutes by boat, leaving his car parked on a nearby bank.

W. E. Steps of the Kansas Water Resources Board, said the state owns the river beds from bank to bank and probably owns the island although he has found no record.

"If he isn't intefering with the flow of the river or commerce on it, he can probably stay. I don't think he is breaking the law," Steps said.

"I used to just go to the bar and waste my time and money," said Freeman "That wasn't the way to go. So I started using that money to buy lumber and the time to build this house. I've been working on the house about three months, usually nights after I get off work." he added.

Robert B. Cooke, director of water pollution control for the city, made a cursory inspection of the island afterward told Freeman:

TV Hits Quarter Century Mark

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television, that infant among entertainment mediums, has reached the quarter century mark.

From Milton Berle to Flip Wilson, "Ozzie and Harriet" to "All in the Family," Gorgeous George to the Olympics, fuzzy siz-inch sets to solid-state color models and kinescopes to satellites, television has come a long way in 25 years.

Television, which has seldom considered its past beyond the value of a rerun, is taking a nostalgic look back at its tender years on the day before the fall season begins. Numerous stars from the past and present are participating.

Appropriately enough, this sentimental journey was undertaken not by a network but by an independent production company, Cooper-Finkel. The show, "A Salute to Television's 25th Anniversary," will be seen on ABC Sunday, Sept. 10.

"There are things you forget about," said Jackie Cooper, who put together film clips of TV's past and whose own participation in the medium reaches back to its earliest days.

"'American Bandstand' and 'Victory at Sea.' It's all part of television if you're paying tribute to it.

"You say, where do you put 'Pantomime Quiz'? It's a lot of fun to look at it. It's fun to see 'PLayhouse 90.' It's exciting to see MacArthur addressing Congress. You take the kid shows and show what's happened from 'Howdy Doody' to 'Sesame Street.'"

In all, Cooper assembled 35 minutes of clips from old shows to be shown on the 90-minute special. He had a team of researchers digging up old films — often times found stored in a star's garage. Cooper said he was saddened by the shabby treatment of television's past product and would like to see the establishment of a library similar to the American Film Institute.

Cooper had another problem with the old film. He said, "We had to stop the lab from improving it. They were retiming the film. It didn't look antiquiated enough. We didn't want it to look like it was shot yesterday."

Most of the show will be taken up by song- and - dance production numbers keyed to television and by the presentation of awards voted by the board of governors of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

In some cases the old clips lead into a production number, as with "Your Hit Parade." Four members of the original cast, Eileen Wilson, Russell Arms, Gisele MacKenzie and Snooky Lanson, sing songs from that early show.

As much as anything, the salute to television will be a study in contrasts. "It's fun to watch Jim Arness grow and change in "Gunsmoke,"' Cooper said. "We have a clip of Arness and Amanda Blake in the first show and then 17 years later. The difference in their acting is amazing."

Not only have acting styles changed, but so has the medium itself. Programs have grown more slick and sophisticated. Movies have replaced original drama as the dramatic format. Comedy is moving steadily toward realism. Westerns once dominated the tube — in all, 61 have galloped down the road — and are now in decline.

Television's own tools also became more sophisticated and they are employed throughout the show. Marty Pasetta, producer - director, said, "We shot the show in about eight different sessions because we couldn't get everyone together at the same time."

Chroma Key and video tape — undreamed of at the inception of television — are the means by which the stars are made to appear to be conversing with each other. Chroma Key is a means by which different images can be electronically matted into one picture.

"Even in the production numbers we use TV tools," said Pasetta. "When Polly Bergen sings 'How Sweet It Was,' we have 16 dancers. On the air it will look like 64 dancers."

Among those appearing will be Lucille Ball, Bob Hope, Sid Caesar, Milton Berle, Dinah Shore, Loren Greene, Ed Sullivan, Florence Henderson, George C. Scott, Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Judith Anderson, Jimmy Durante, Robert Young, John Wayne and James Arness. It was Wayne who suggested Arness for the role of Matt Dillon in "Gunsmoke" and did the first on-the-air prome for the show.

Not every star of television's past was willing to cooperate, Cooper said, and some refused to allow any film clips to be used. In those cases, he said, publicity still photographs are used.

To Make Film In St. Joseph

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A sizable segment of a Paramount Pictures Corp. film starring Ryan O'Neal and his 9-year-old daughter, Tatum, will be shot in and around St. Joseph this fall.

Frank Marshall, associate producer, and Neil Canton, assistant to the director, revealed plans for the movie Thursday.

The film was described as a light romantic comedy set around 1935 and with O'Neal playing the role of a traveling con man.

Marshall said plans are to begin shooting in St. Joseph and vicinity around Nov. 8 or 9.

A crew of 55-60 will be on hand for the five weeks of filming planned here.

A major portion of the film will be made in and around Hays, Kan. beginning Sept. 25.

The title likely will be changed before production is completed, Marshall said.

Refus To Try To Fill Fraziers Track As Lover

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A Wichita lion named Rufus is facing a king-sized task.

He has been purchased from the city's Riverside Zoo by Lion Country Safari in California as a replacement for mighty Frasier, the aged king of beasts who fathered 35 cubs and became a household name.

Rufus, who came to Wichita in May, 1961, from Clifty Acres game farm in Madison, Ind., heads west Thursday to face the challenge of inheriting seven widows of the late Frasier and the 35 cubs.

Frasier died several weeks ago. He achieved his international fame when at the age of about 20, which is more than 85 in a human male, he won over the pride of seven lionesses.

Previously, the females had rejected a host of young males.

Frasier increased Lion Country Safari's lion population by a third in an astonishing 16-months.

Jerry Korbin, Lion Country vice president, said Wednesday that Rufus will arrive in Los Angeles Thursday by air freight. He said Rufus looks like a worthy successor.

"He has always displayed the willingness but lacked cooperative mates and the proper breeding environment," Korbin said.

Ed Scofield, zoo keeper at Wichita's Riverside Park, said Rufus should fit into his new role as head of the pride if he is given a little time to adjust.

"I think Rufus can make the adjustment," he said.

Rufus, Scofield said, has fathered three cubs at Wichita's zoo. But in each case the mother of the cubs killed them before the zoo keepers could remove them from the mother.

Rufus was born in 1957 on the Indiana game farm. His mate, Judy II, died in December 1970.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Feminine Gem

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Georgie was gay, but he wasn't very happy. Working for the federal government as a financial analyst, his superiors took a dim view of his confusing gender. In fact, he was ultimately fired from his civil service job on the grounds that his off -duty immoral conduct adversely affected the efficiency of the service.

"What do they mean by my immoral off -duty conduct?" he protested. "After 5:00 p.m., my time is my own. If I choose to fill it with men that's my own personal business. And under no circumstances does my after -hours activities adversely influence the efficiency of the service. Until 5 p.m. I'm an expert in my field. After 5 p.m., it does not matter."

"It's not that simple," was the opposition. "Georgie's immoral sexual relationships makes him a subject for blackmail. And that makes him a security risk. Besides, just having him around is embarrassing to the agency. While he may be a gem as a financial analyst, his high pitched voice could shatter a diamond."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order Georgie reinstated?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! While he conceded that there were times when an employee's sexual conduct might bear on the efficiency of the service, it was not so, he held, in this case. Georgie, observed the judge, did his work well, was not employed in a sensitive area where blackmail might be attempted nor did he impose himself upon others.

A government agency, concluded the judge, cannot support a dismissal as promoting the efficiency of the service merely by shaking its head and crying shame despite the potential embarrassment.

Different facts and circumstances, of course, could produce a different decision it was noted.

Nixon-McGovern Now Face Main Campaign Stretch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both President Nixon and challenger George S. McGovern appeared relaxed and confident today as they faced the main stretch in their presidential campaigns.

Nixon, who was in San Clemente, Calif., for the Labor Day holiday, planned to travel to San Francisco today to meet with his Citizens Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality. He was to fly to Washington afterward.

McGovern carried his Democratic campaign into Seattle, Portland, Ore., and Los Angeles, while his running mate, Sargent Shriver, was in Boston and planned other stops at Portland, Maine; Springfield, Mass., and Albany, N.Y.

Labor Day is the traditional starting time for the presidential campaign which ends with the election on Nov. 7, although the campaigning actually started much earlier.

Nixon's trip to San Francisco was described as non-political, and there were no public appearances planned. He was to meet aboard a ferryboat with the environmental group to discuss a proposal for a Golden Gate National Recreation Area in California.

In Seattle, McGovern urged federal help to create 25,000 jobs at the Boeing Co., whose aircraft production operations here have been severely curtailed by lack of work. He proposed cleaner and quieter engines for commercial jets.

He criticized a statement by AFL-CIO President George Meany that McGovern is an "apologist" for Communist bloc countries. He said Meany's statement was "total nonsense" and added, "I don't think the American people believe it."

McGovern said in remarks prepared for Portland that the Nixon administration has ignored problems of the elderly. He called for a minimum monthly Social Security payment of $150 for aged, blind and disabled Americans. He also advocated a complete pension reform program and national health insurance.

McGovern planned to spend tonight in Los Angeles.

Shriver, talking with newsmen in Syracuse, N.Y., and in Boston, Monday, implied that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans were "apparently involved" in the alleged bugging of Democratic National headquarters in Washington.

Dole Claims Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole says he has found seven more violations of political finance laws by Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign.

Sen. Dole, R-Kan., last week alleged several other violations by the Democrats, and Monday said, "These further apparent violations confirm my belief that McGovern is playing fast and loose with the election laws and deceiving the American public ..."

But McGovern's national political director, Frank Mankiewicz, replied that Dole's accusations were "contemptible and totally lacking in substance."

President Nixon's campaign finances already are under investigation after the General Accounting Office declared on Aug. 26 that there were "apparent and possible" violations involving GOP campaign funds.

The GAO also is looking into McGovern campaign finances.

Dole said one apparent violation is a contribution of at least $50,000 by Playboy magazine publisher Hugh Hefner, which, Dole said, was divided into several $2,500 individual contributions so Hefner could avoid payment of federal taxes.

Viets Hope Progressives Will Protect Prisoners

HONG KONG (AP) — North Vietnam said Monday it hoped that "progressive Americans" would protect three prisoners of war to be released from being "transformed by the Nixon administration into an instrument in the service of the U. S. war of aggression in Vietnam."

The statement, published in the official Nhan Dan daily and broadcast by Radio Hanoi, followed an earlier North Vietnamese warning that the three men "must not be used by the U. S. administration" to slander North Vietnam's "humane and lenient policy."

If the released POWs are used for that purpose, Hanoi said, it would be against the "interests of the families of other captured U. S. pilots in North Vietnam."

Today's Nhan Dan said it was feared the U. S. government would try to "again force these men — as it did with earlier released prisoners - into becoming instruments of slander and instruments in the service of the U.S. aggressive war."

It repeated earlier statements that men previously freed had, at the time of their release, praised North Vietnam for its "humane and lenient policy" but subsequently had been forced by U. S. officials to "slander our government's treatment of captured prisoners."

State Wide Phone Web Starts Oct. 6

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A 16-city telephone system connecting state agencies will go into effect Oct. 6, United Telephone Co officials said today.

The system will eliminate long-distance calls from a state agency in one city to a state agency in another city.

All state agencies outside the 15 cities hooked up to Jefferson City will have access to the system. It will be implemented jointly by United, Southwestern Bell, General Telephone and Western Telephone.

An employe in a state agency in Jefferson City, for example, will be able to reach a state agency in Rolla by dialing an access code and four digits.

The calls will be direct dialed, although state operators will work with the system. Persons calling from outside a state agency can still be connected to various departments by an operator.

Cities to be linked with Jefferson City are Columbia, St. Louis, Kansas City, Rolla, Hannibal, Fulton, Farmington, Cape Girardeau, Joplin, Kirksville, Macon, Poplar Bluff, St. Joseph, Springfield and Willow Springs.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date:

In 1905, the Treaty of Portsmouth, N.H., ended the RussoJapanese War.

In 1939, the United States proclaimed neutrality in World War II.

In 1945, the American flag was raised on Wake Island after Japanese forces surrendered.

In 1963, three white schools scheduled for integration in Birmingham, Ala., were closed on orders of Gov. George C. Wallace.

Ten years ago: At the United Nations, 31 nations pledged $86 million in cash and commodities in the first cooperative attempt to relieve hunger in poor nations.

Five years ago: The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the United States was trying to develop pure fusion nuclear weapons which would have no fallout and still was trying to develop a neutron bomb.

One year ago: The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington put on its first public performance—a preview of Leonard Bernstein's new "Mass."

JEFFERSON CITY — The end of the military draft, announced August 28th by President Nixon, will apparently have little effect on the units of the Missouri National Guard, according to Col. Kirby Goldblum, executive officer of the Missouri Guard. Col. Goldblum said that an intensive recruitment program has been in effect for ten months in Missouri. As a result, the strength of the Guard is running only slightly below the authorized levels.

"The young men of Missouri have been very responsive to an enlightened and energetic recruiting program on the part of Guard personnel," said Col. Goldblum. He expects that the under-staffing will end shortly as both Army and Air National Guard units are coming up to strength rapidly.

The new recruitment program was devised and implemented by Missouri Adjutant General L. B. Adams. Officers and men from each Missouri Guard Unit are trained for recruiting duty in their home towns.

Recruitment and Retention Officer Col. Jess Henson took over his office when the new program was implemented. He says that the Guard has no plans to offer incentives or bonuses to entice enlistments. "There's no need to," said Col. Henson. "Our program emphasizes the benefits the Guard offers in serving your country from your own home town." He added that the job situation being what it is in smaller towns, the monthly duty check looks good to a lot of recruits.

In other areas of the county concern was expressed that the end of the draft might affect National Guard units by encouraging volunteers to go into the new volunteer army instead of the Guard.

Col. Goldblum says that the new smaller volunteer army will call for increased importance of the National Guard and the Army Reserves in terms of their being a larger part of the entire national defense picture. "This has been recognized by Defense Secretary Melvin Laird," said Col. Goldblum, "because the National Guard is now being issued rapidly increasing amounts of military material."

Future training for the Guard is going to be different, too. Members will be trained in the use of the nation's most sophisticated weapons and equipment. Units will do active duty training and summer training at bases which emphasize effective combat training.

The Guard will continue its service to the state in times of emergencies. The last time the Guard was mobilized into an emergency situation was following a flood in the Joplin area when the 203rd Engineer's Battalion was sent to patrol and aid the area.

Col. Henson summed it up: "The Missouri National Guard will continue to be an effective part of this nation's defense system as well as a valuable citizen of the state of Missouri."

4. The ultimatum deadline would run out within three hours.

5. In the event the ultimatum is not heeded, orders would be given "to carry out revolutionary and just force in order to give the war chiefs of the Israeli war machine a hard lesson."

Dr. Manfred Schreiber, the Munich chief of police, told a news conference the West German government offered the terrorists an unlimited sum of money to call off their siege. The police also offered to send in substitute hostages if the Arabs would release the Israeli athletes.

Schreiber said the Arabs refused.

Officials said one of the dead men was the team's wrestling trainer, Moshe Weinberg, 32, a former Israeli champion.

Novel Tells Of Mythical Asia Country

We are well aware of the duties of servicemen, ranging from heroics in combat to KP duty. But we know less about that special group of government workers whose purpose is to help keep the peace by squashing international rumblings and to offer assistance in various ways.

Here is an interesting novel, by a former Foreign Service Information Officer, explaining the operations of these government career people who usually remain in the shadows of obscurity.
